IN THE BEE TO-DAY

U. S. Department of Agriculture, Weather Bureau, Toledo, O., July 13, '92.

For the first time in over a week the general weather conditions over the country are somewhat unsettled.

The pressure has decreased considerable, and over the northern half of the country there is no well-defined storm or anti-storm area.

The southern states are still covered by the area of high pressure.

During the past 24 hours local showers have fallen over Montana, North Dakota, Wisconsin, Kansas, Illinois, Michigan, Ohio, Missouri, Nebraska and the southern states. These rains with a few exceptions, have been very light.

The temperature has remained stationary in all sections except around Lake Michigan, where it has fallen from 5 to 15 degrees.

Conditions are favorable for local showers in almost any portion of the country.

Forecast for Toledo and vicinity for the next 36 hours—Fair, with occasional light rain, continued warm weather.

E. O. HANNER, Observer.

Washington, July 13.—Forecast for Ohio—Local showers to-day or to-night, followed by clearing weather; westerly winds; slightly cooler.

For Indiana and Illinois—Local showers, followed by clearing weather; variable winds; slightly warmer in extreme northern portions.

For Michigan—Fair; northerly winds, becoming variable; cooler Thursday morning.

For Wisconsin—Fair weather; northerly winds, becoming variable.

GLADSTONE RETURNED.

London, July 13.—Mr. Gladstone has been re-elected in Midlothian, receiving 5,750 votes to 5,077 for Col. Wauchope, the liberal unionist candidate.

It's flying in the face of Nature to take the ordinary pill. Just consider how it acts. There's too much bulk and bustle, and not enough real good. And think how it leaves you when it's all over! Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets act naturally. They help Nature to do her own work. They cleanse and renovate, mildy but thoroughly, the whole system. Regulate it, too. The help that they give, lasts.

They're purely vegetable, perfectly harmless, the smallest, easiest, and best to take. Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the Liver, Stomach and Bowels are promptly relieved and permanently cured. One tiny, sugar-coated Pellet for a gentle laxative—three for a cathartic.

They're the cheapest pill you can buy, for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned.

You pay only for the good you get.

This is true only of Dr. Pierce's medicines.

The Situation at Homestead Unchanged.

Soldiers Have Charge of the Town.

The Strikers Anxiously Awaiting the Next Move.

Congressional Investigating Committee Gets to Work.

And Mr. Frick Makes a Long Statement of His Side—The Coroner's Inquest—Strike Leaders Snubbed by the Militia Officers.

Pittsburg, July 13.—Secretary Lovejoy, of the Carnegie Steel company, this morning declined to discuss the situation or future, except as to the action to be taken in reference to the notice from the Beaver Falls and Upper and Lower Union mills, that unless the company granted a conference with the Homestead workers the men in the mills named would come out, and on this question he said:

"The action of the men in these mills will have no weight in this question, nor will their request be granted. The policy of the company has been fixed and will not be altered.

"We will hold no conference with the Homestead mill men whatever the result. This we have stated at numerous times and our position has not and will not change.

"If the men in every department of every mill we have, go out, because we will grant no conference with the Homestead men, it will not alter the case."

AT HOMESTEAD.

The Militiamen Have Complete Possession of the Carnegie Headquarters.

Homestead, Pa., July 13.—The provost guard of the militia maintained order in Homestead last night. After 10 o'clock the militiamen began to disappear from the streets, but the townspeople as a rule did not go in doors until midnight. Upon the big hill where the camp is located fires gleamed brightly and their rays showed silhouette pictures on the white tents.

All night long trains of cars filled with baggage and camp accoutrements were arriving in Homestead and the corps of men to assist the quartermaster in unloading and transferring had plenty to do. These squads worked all night. As fast as tents were received they would be sent to the camp to give by their presence what comfort they could to the shivering militiamen, who had no canopy to cover them except the blue sky.

Only a few tents had been received in camp up to sundown yesterday and the great bulk of men consequently did not sleep under canvass. Some of them suffered severely fro mthe chill night air, particularly as daybreak drew near. This morning squads of men busied themselves in putting the tents in position, and in a few hours the camp was complete. There are not so many soldiers on the streets to-d ayas there were last night.

The provost guard is doing its work well. The saloons that did such a thriving business yesterday are open again to-day, but the absence of the great number of militiamen from the boroughs is detrimental to good business by the saloon keepers. While there was some drunkenness on the streets yesterday there was little disorder. The troops and the townspeople kept apart and no conflict occurred between them.

Gen. Snowden has practically refused to recognize the authorities of the borough. He told the acting burgess that if the town would take care of its people he would take care of his soldiers. This was apropos of a statement by the acting burgess that drunken and disorderly soldiers were liable to arrest by the borough police. Gen. Snowden showed by his manner and address that he considered himself in charge of Homestead and recognized the authority of no one except Gov. Pattison and, incidentally, Sheriff McCleary.

The townspeople are not talking much about the presence of the soldiers. They show no resentment in their manner, and personal conflicts are not likely to occur. The friction between the military and the citizens caused by the refusal of Gen. Snowden yesterday to co-operate with the townspeople in maintaining order and in declining a reception by them will probably amount to nothing, although the leaders are very sore over their treatment.

Sheriff McCleary has hinted that he will arrest several of the leaders in the battle against the Pinkertons. In such action as this lies the greatest danger of bloodshed. With the cool heads of the leaders withdrawn, authority among the workmen will cease and inflamed talk will incite the hot-blooded strikers to something reckless. A conflict with the troops would result disastrously to the town and those engaged against the side of law and order. The bulk of the workmen realize this, but there is no telling how radical will be the changes of feeling if half a dozen leaders are placed in durance.

Matters have quieted down to-day, and the spirit of peace seems to be in the air. No fear of trouble is entertained unless Mr. H. C. Frick places non-union men in his works. The whirring of the machinery and the clanking of the hammers would be as gall and wormwood to the locked out men, but it is not believed their passions will carry them to such an extent that an attempt would be made to prevent the non-union men from going to the mills. It is the general belief here that Mr. Frick will man the mill with new men as soon as possible. He has practically admitted that such was his intention.

The news that the employes in Carnegie's upper and lower Union mills at Pittsburg had met and notified the management that unless negotiations looking to a settlement of the trouble at Homestead were opened by Thursday the men in all departments would walk out at the conclusion of that day's work, caused much rejoicing among the locked-out Carnegie men here. One of the leaders said that he had expected such action some days ago, and he was glad that the Pittsburg men had come to realize that the defeat of the Homestead men meant the defeat of organized labor in the steel industry and particularly in all of the Carnegie mills.

When asked if the Carnegie men at Braddack and Duquesne will also go out the leader replied: "The men at both these establishments have notified us of their willingness to go out if we think it will aid us in any way and they have put it in a way that we must ask them to stop work. We will not do that. We want no help through sympathy. If these men see that it is their fight as well as ours and go out of their own accord well and good. If not, we must get along without them."

Maj.-Gen. Snowden has located his headquarters in the Carnegie school-house, a two-story frame building on the brow of the hill. A line of pickets was established around the building, and when a United Press reporter attempted to visit the commanding officer late last night he was startled by hearing "Halt! Who goes there. Stand back ten feet." A musket with fixed bayonet thrust under the reporter's nose induced him to fall back. One of the guards then escorted him to guard No. 1, where an officer was found who examined his pass and admitted him within the lines. The passes are issued to newspaper men having credentials from the papers and press associations which they represent and admit within all lines from 6 a. m. to 10 p. m. They are signed by Maj.-Gen. Snowden and Maj. Evans, aide-de-camp.

The expense of the sojourn of the troops at Homestead will be paid out of an appropriation for suppressing riots, and there will be no summer camp this year. Already there is a scheme on foot to use the money which is appropriated for the summer encampment to give the militiamen a trip to the world's fair next year. No less a person than a staff officer expressed himself as favoring the project.

CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEE

Investigating the Trouble—Mr. Frick Makes a Long Statement.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 13.—The congressional committee did not get back from Homestead until 6 o'clock yesterday, and it was two hours later before the investigation began. Conspicuous among those present were H. C. Frick and Superintendent Patton, of the Carnegie company, and President Wm. W. Weyhe, Vice President Roberts, David Lynch and Oliver Searight, of the Amalgamated association. Mr. Frick was accompanied by his attorneys, Messrs. Knoe and Reed. The banquet hall in the Monongahela house, where the session was held, faces the Monongahela, the river which just one week ago was incarnadined with the blood of intruding Pinkertons.

The committee's inquiry began promptly at the hour stated and continued until after 10 o'clock with Mr. Frick on the stand the entire evening. His examination brought out many new features in the present trouble, noticeably the plan by which the Pinkerton men were employed and the arrangements that were made for their transportation to this city, the wages paid under the sliding scale and those proposed were all brought out.

Mr. Frick was put under a severe cross-examination by Representative Boatner. Just before the adjournment, which proved to be the most interesting part of the evening's proceedings.

Frick's Examination.

Chairman Oat swore Mr. Frick and conducted the direct examination.

When asked the cost of production per ton he declined to state; also cost of steel per ton or cost of labor. His interview with George N. McCann the day following the riot was submitted as evidence in reply to inquiries as to the result of the disagreements. He was then questioned on the employment of the Pinkerton force, and stated that 300 were secured on June 24 at $5 each per day, and produced the letter written to the Pinkerton agency in New York, in answer to one of the 22d asking for the 300 men as a measure of prevention against interference with a plan of starting the works on July 6, and promising as soon as the men were on the premises the sheriff would be notified and asked that they be deputized.

On cross-examination he admitted that he anticipated trouble on June 24, though nothing particular had been said or done to warrant it. The stockade was built before the works were shut down, in anticipation of trouble. The first disorderly demonstration was the notice of the advisory committee in regard to the gas burning in the furnaces—two days before the Pinkerton men started. He had not called on the sheriff previous to making arrangements with the Pinkertons, because their experience with the sheriff three years ago convinced them it would be useless.

Mr. Frick permitted the reading of letters which he said had largely governed the actions of the managers of the works since the trouble began, and the committee adjourned till 9 o'clock to-day.

In reply to questions the witness stated that about 3,800 men were employed in the Homestead works, and produced the pay roll of the 119-inch mill to show the classes of men and the wages paid each class. The wages ranged all the way from $40 to $275 per month. The wages of the rollers were the highest. These averaged from $250 to $275 for the month. The heaters from $185 to 190; heaters' helpers about $130; trainmen, from $97 to $120; head shearers, $100; sheearers' helpers, $95; gaugers, $75, and a variety of other men averaging about $75. The total amount paid in wages to this department for the month of May was $20,202.95.

He stated that the basis of pay was the contract made July 1, 1889, which was to run for three years, expiring July 1, 1892. It is known as the sliding scale system. The rates when agreed to were to continue for three months, determined upon the average selling price of steel billets, and the average price of one term to be the basis for the next three months, the standard grade 4x4 billets to be the basis of price. Mr. Frick detailed to the committee the mode of the quarterly settlement of the scale, saying that a committee of three from the Amalgamated and three from the firm were appointed to determine the average selling price for each term.

In the event of the six not agreeing, a seventh man was always selected and his decision was accepted as final. All-day labor was not included in the sliding scale. This scale was based on steel billets at $26.50 per ton. On that basis the rate per 100 tons for the heaters, first helper was $3.07 and his daily earnings were $4.53. In the proposed scale for 1892-93 this rate was not changed, but with the increased tonnage made possible by the introduction of new machinery his daily earnings would be over $5."

Mr. Frick then detailed the negotiations with the men on the new scale and the failure to agree. By this scale he said only 325 out of the entire 3,800 men employed were affected. The men presented a scale in almost every instance calling for an advance. Mr. Frick stated that the proposed reductions were based on the decline in prices during the three years. Tank steel plates were reduced 21 per cent., beams and channels 39 per cent., and steel billets 16 per cent. The reduction in wages was about 15 per cent.

Mr. Frick attributed the continual decline to over-production and the reduction in the tariff. There had been a decrease, he thought in the importation of the articles upon which the men were affected by the proposed new scale. He could not approximate the difference between the cost of labor per ton in Europ and here. Mr. Frick then stated that another point in dispute was the change of date for the signing of the scale from July to January, because it was against their interests to be idle during July and August, when building was most active. The men were willing to reduce the minimum from $25 to $24, but desired that the scale extend to July 1, 1895. No agreement could be reached and the works shut down.

NOW IT'S MICHIGAN.

Amalgamated Workers Go on Strike at Wyandotte.

Wyandotte, Mich., July 13.—The four hundred employes of the Eureka Iron and Steel company have struck. They are members of the Amalgamated association. No outbreak has yet occurred but trouble is feared if the company should attempt to introduce non-union employes. The wildest rumors are afloat about the introduction of Pinkerton men, but there are none here yet. Boyd's agency in Detroit, is hiring men from the Pinkerton force, but Boyd denies that the men are coming here.

INVESTIGATING.

The Grand Jury in Session and at Work

On the Charges Preferred Against City Officials.

Counter Charges Made by Members of the Council.

Judge Harmon's Charge to the Jury.

Five Witnesses Examined This Forenoon—Fifteen Others Yet to be Heard From—Interviews With Witnesses.

Sensation seems to follow sensation rather rapidly in the alleged boodleism cases. Yesterday and to-day it has been about the sole topic of conversation on the streets, and this morning there are rumors of counter charges, wherein it is alleged that those preferring the charges offered members of the common council money consideration for their votes.

Those thus charged laugh at the allegations, and court the fullest inquiry.

"It is claimed by one of the councilmen," said A. W. Machen, of the Pluto Oil company to a Bee this morning, "that we offered $25,000 for the passage of an ordinance. Of course it is a lie, and we court the fullest investigation."

Mr. Machen and others interested on the other side laugh at the charge, not only as false, but as absurd.

"Why should we offer $25,000," he said, "when we were told we could have it passed for $5,500?"

Mr. Machen told the above in the presence of Capt. McMaken, ex-Alderman Potter and others, this morning.

Sheriff Stuart did a good day's work yesterday, and this morning had 15 of the 20 grand jurors on hand at 9 o'clock.

Prosecutor Barber was at his private office at an early hour, but refused to give any definite information relative to specific charges, plans, etc.

There were not over twenty people outside the grand jurors in the court room when the proceedings commenced.

It was 9:10 when Judge Harmon took his seat.

Sheriff Stuart announced the opening of a special session of the grand jury.

Judge Harmon requested him to simply announce that the court of common pleas was in session. This was done, and the court was ready for business.

Judge Harmon then requested Clerk Wade to call the list of grand jurors.

Stillman Brown, the first name called, was excused because he is a member of the board of equalization.

The following answered as their names were called:

Joel W. Kelsey,	Nathan Gardner,
Foster R. Warren,	E. C. Danforth,
A. H. Evans,	J. A. Moore,
J. S. Harbeck,	W. C. Mettler,
Jas. Draper,	H. P. Fowler,
Chas. A. Rowsey,	M. J. Cooney,
B. F. Sawyer,	Geo. J. Keeler,
J. E. Walsh.

Patrick Dowling was absent and excused, as was also W. S. Brainard, who is out of the city.

Upon the list being finished Judge Harmon asked Prosecutor Barber if he had anything to say.

Mr. Barber made an inquiry regarding the name of one of the jurors, and said he had nothing to say to the jury at present.

Foster R. Warren was selected foreman of the jury and after he was sworn the oath was submitted to the others in a body by Clerk Wade.

Judge Harmon's Address.

Judge Harmon then briefly addressed the jurors. He said:

Gentlemen: You have been called in special session to investigate some matters that have come to the notice of the prosecuting attorney which he will lay before you at the proper time and place. These charges relate to accusations made against officers of the city government of Toledo, and I suppose I cannot say anything that will tend to increase your sense of impartiality and maintaining, if possible, the positions of said officials free of suspicion. Their conduct as public officers is the basis on which rests to a great extent the prosperity and peace and credit of our city. They have in their hands large interests and handle incidentally large sums of money. Now, if corruption has been introduced into that official body it may prove exceedingly disastrous to the best interests and welfare of the city and to our public affairs. Even the suspicion of corruption will prove very detrimental to the city's interests and public service. I will read for you sections of the oath you have just taken and point out to you the duty that you as jurors owe to the accused and to the city.

Judge Harmon thereupon proceeded to read extracts from the oath wherein it pertains to the fairness and justness that should attend all matters under consideration. It was their duty, he said, under their oath to keep secret all information given them, except when requested in a court of justice to do otherwise.

Proceeding Judge Harmon said:

"This matter to which I have just referred at some length will be the only matter that will be called to your attention."

He then adjourned court until 2 o'clock.

The jury then accompanied Prosecutor Barber to Judge Pugsley's room where the session will be held.

After seeing the jury properly and comfortably lodged, Mr. Barber returned to Judge Harmon's room.

"Are none of the witnesses here yet?" he said, glancing around the court room.

Then, spying A. W. Machen, he said: "Come with me, Mr. Machen, to be sworn."

Mr. Machen went to the clerk's office, where he was duly sworn, and he was the first witness before the grand jury.

Mr. Barber was asked by a Bee this morning for the names of the witnesses.

"No," he said, "I cannot give them to you. By the way, I desire to thank the Bee for keeping its promises and not publishing the matter I asked to be suppressed yesterday. I wish others would have kept their promises as well."

The matters referred to were facts which Mr. Barber considered wise not to publish until it came before the grand jury.

The witnesses subpoenaed make no secret of the fact that they have been called.

Some Singular Statements.

George Bassett, the well-known court stenographer, it is said, will be a very important witness. He has presented to Mr. Barber 36 pages of typewritten manuscript that will be mighty interesting reading.

The manner in which Mr. Bassett secured his information was still more interesting. He was concealed underneath the floor, and through a 16-inch hole cut beneath a desk in a certain office in this city he could not only hear the speakers at the desk above him, but he could see them plainly.

One of the chief witnesses for the prosecution made the above statement in substance to a Bee this morning.

Another who seems to be posted said:

"It is somewhat singular that all the sums asked for are divisible by 11. For instance, the $5,500 asked in one case is 11 times $500, and the $11,000 asked in two cases is 11 times $1,000, and so on."

"Are these real cases or only imaginary ones?"

"They are real. I know personally of at least one, and I know the others are just as true."

It is said that in one instance where more than one of the accused members appeared there were always an equal number of witnesses. For instance if three members were present there were the witnesses somewhere around.

The Witnesses and What They Will Divulge.

The witnesses are: A. E. Lang, general manager of the Consolidated Street Railway company.

August W. Machen, George E. Lorenz, Henry Lorenz, of the Pluto Oil company, and the bookkeeper of the company, Frank Schmidt, and the stenographer, George Bassett.

President G. H. Van Vleck, Vice-President F. H. Steel and Manager Frank Gifford of the Paragon Refining company.

Judge J. H. Doyle, A. W. Scott and J. S. Rogers, of the Northwestern Ohio Natural Gas company.

Frank J. Hoag, agent of the Warren-Scharf Asphalt Paving company.

Councilmen John Felker, Frank Coleman and H. R. Lee.

Ex-City Clerk Cole, City Clerk Lamb.

David Robison and an employe who hid behind a desk in Mr. Robison's office and heard the conversation with one of the councilmen.

Councilman Felker is a most important witness. The alleged boodlers, it is claimed, approached him and endeavored to get him into the ring, but as soon as he learned what they were up to he gave them the cold shoulder.

Talks With Witnesses.

Mr. George E. Lorenz talking to a Bee, said that when his company was first approached they set right down on the ring.

"The councilmen who made the proposition to me," said Mr. Lorenz, "told us that the matter we were interested in would lose ten votes if we did not come up. We paid no attention to their demands and sure enough, when the matter came up it was defeated. That's the way matters have been going. They wanted to sell ten votes."

August Machen.

August Machen, one of the principal witnesses, took the stand at about 9:30 and piled on testimony for a straight hour and three-quarters.

He came out of the court room wiping the perspiration from his fear-head as the atmosphere was by no means cool.

"Well, Mr. Machen," said a Bee, "was the testimony damaging?"

"Damaging?" was the answer. "Well, I would hate to have it against me."

"Will they be able to find a true bill against any of the councilmen?"

"I am of the impression that they cannot do otherwise."

"How many do you think can be implicated in this matter?"

"There is evidence that will surely convict six, and perhaps ten, or even eleven."

"How did the alleged boodlers work; did they come right out and ask for what they wanted?"

"They did. They had no middle men and made no bones about stating their demands. It was an outrage."

Geo. Bassett

Was the next to step into the grand jury room. He was inside about three-quarters of an hour.

"Well, I suppose you had a long story to tell them?" a Bee remarked to him, as he hastened for the outer air.

"Not very. I simply testified to the truth of the documents I presented, how the evidence was secured and the like."

"Will you say anything relative to the contents of the document you refer to?"

"No. I cannot. You must see the parties who employed me."

"Do you consider the documentary evidence presented by you as of a strong nature?"

"Yes, I should say it was very strong, but of course what weight it may have with the jury I know nothing."

J. S. Rodgers.

J. S. Rodgers, of Dewey, Rodgers & Co., was the next witness, but he was reticent and got down the back stairs and away before he could be secured by the reporters. It is understood that he was one of the most important witnesses.

Frank J. Hoag,

of the Warren-Scharf Co., was next. It took him only 30 minutes to tell all he knew. While he was in the jury room A. E. Lang, of the Consolidated put in an appearance. He saw Mr. Barber and was told to return at 2 o'clock.

"I can throw no light on this matter," Mr. Lang said in reply to a query of a Bee. "In fact, I know nothing about it, and I don't know why I have been subpoenaed."

"Is it claimed that you were among those approached?"

"I don't know. If such a claim is made it is not true as far as I am personally concerned."

"Councilman Felker."

Col. Harbeck called the name from the court room door and Mr. Felker promptly responded. He is said to be a very important witness. The jury evidently was interested in what he had to say for they kept him a considerable time. It is claimed by him that he was asked to join the combination, but he drew out when he learned the object of the organization.

David Robison, Jr.,

Was anxious to get through and asked for an audience. He was requested to come back after dinner.

"No, I won't sing my song to you," he laughingly replied to a Bee's query, "but I'll sing it to the grand jury by and by."

"You might relieve your mind of a portion of it any way?"

"No, I guess not. I'll do that when I go before the grand jury."

The Jury.

The jury secured is believed to be one of the best and fairest ever empaneled in Lucas county.

"It is one of the best—composed of the best material—I have ever seen in this court house," City Solicitor Read said to a Bee this morning.

This seems to be the general impression. It will be, consequently, a fair, square deal all around, and that is all any one can ask or seek.

The jury adjourned at noon until 2 o'clock.

Afternoon Session.

It was said this afternoon that some of the witnesses who have been great in the talks are weakening, and it is hinted that the sword is a two-edged one.

Councilman Lee, of the Third ward, was the first witness this afternoon. He was before the jury upwards of an hour. A. E. Lang, Geo. E. Lorenz, and David Robison followed.

Frank Coleman, president of the board of councilmen, was on the stand when the Bee went to press.

Mr. Barber said to a Bee this afternoon that he believed the session would last until to-morrow noon, probably longer.

Trying to Find Councilmen.

The Bee to-day made an effort to get statements from members of the council boards, but it was a difficult matter to find any of them and only a few interviews could be obtained.

Mr. Neuendorf, the first one seen, was found at his place of business on Summit street. He declined to make any statement relative to the matter further than to say that he had no fear of the investigation, and said he: "I think that some of these people who are making charges will get into trouble if the matter is sifted to the bottom, for if there has been any attempt at bribery it is they who have made the advances.

Mr. Tanner also refused to make any statement for publication, but he did say that if the matter was fully investigated that people outside of the council would be implicated, as he claimed to be able to prove that certain persons had made offers of money to him and also to other councilmen.

WILD CARS.

Run Down a Wagon at a Crossing

And Kill Four of the Passengers, Besides Seriously Injuring Several Others.

Middletown, N. Y., July 13.—Part of a freight train on the Ontario & Western railroad struck a wagon containing 10 persons about 2:30 o'clock this morning, killing four of its occupants and injuring three others. The killed are: George Walsh, Miss Cassie McCoy and Mr. and Mrs. Frank, all of New York. In the wagon besides the driver were Miss Frank, Mrs. J. F. Sheton, A. F. Fuller, Mrs. Tappan, Clara Case and Miss Brown. All were from New York and were boarding at Dell Case's, Bloomingburg, for the summer.

The party went to Wurtsboro to attend a picnic Tuesday afternoon, and were returning home when the accident happened. The wagon road as it climbs the mountain at Wurtsboro runs parallel with the railroad tracks for some distance before crossing. The driver when near the grossing saw the engine and train as he supposed, pass. Just as the horses had passed safely over the tracks he saw several cars bearing down towards them on a heavy grade. They proved to be a part of the train which had broken from the forward part. The wagon was struck squarely in the center, killing the four who were seated on the two rear seats. The driver had his arm broken, and Mrs. Tappan, who is the wife of Capt. Tappan, of New York, was badly injured, as was also Miss Brown. The bodies of the killed were removed to Wurtsboro and an inquest will be held this afternoon.

To the Colts: We noticed in the Bee about a week ago that you claimed the championship under 19 years. We challenged you three times now, and you failed to accept. You have no claim on the championship until you have defeated us. We have more claim on the championship than you have, as we have defeated all comers. Now, if you have any pluck come up next Sunday on the St. Clair grounds and decide it. William Mynihen, manager Eighth Ward Browns. Answer in Thursday's Bee.

MID-SUMMER MEET.

The First Day at the Driving Park a Success.

A Fast Track, Good Racing and Fine Weather

Gives Those in Attendance a Delightful Day—The Events To-day—Better Street Car Facilities—Notes.

Toledo Driving Park—W. H. Morehouse and Joel Potter, judges; C. H. Jones and R. R. Kinkade, timers; R. J. Wheeler, starter.

The opening day of the midsummer meet of the Toledo Driving park was a pronounced and deserved success.

Messrs. Geroe, Bellman, Crane and other young business men propose giving Toledo splendid attractions, and yesterday, for the initial attempt, proves that they means business.

The street car facilities yesterday were miserable, but Manager Lang notified Secretary Crane yesterday that better facilities will be given the balance of the week.

The attendance, estimated at 3,500, was good for the first day. The track was in excellent condition and patrons were more than pleased at the many improvements on the exposition grounds and particularly on and around the track.

The Races.

The racing program was not considered as good as those that are to follow. The racing was good, however, and the time made was a surprise to many. Were it not for the mishap to Wilkie Knox, who, after winning two straight heats in the pacing class, was withdrawn on account of injuries received in a runaway, there was not a mishap to mar the pleasure of the day. Knox undoubtedly would have won, hands down, but being out of the race Beechnut won in three straight heats.

Pacing Race.

Of the 10 entries in the pacing, 2:45 class, six started. Ridgeway got the pole in the first with Beechnut second. At the quarter stretch Wilkes Knox took the lead and was never headed. Beechnut broke twice and Knox came in an easy winner. In the second Beechnut led into the home stretch, looking like a winner but broke and came in a poor second.

As Knox turned after passing under the gate wire he was run into by Lesley C., and driver was thrown to the ground. He was at first supposed to be badly injured, but fortunately he was unharmed and walked from the track without assistance. The spirited animal dashed up the track, making such desperate efforts to free himself from the sulky that he dashed it with terrific force against the starting wire which stretches across the track 20 feet from the ground. Just as he broke clear of the sulky, which he literally kicked into smithereens, he was captured and taken to his stable where it was found that he was cut and bleeding in many places on the flanks and legs.

Dr. Newton announced that the wounds were not serious, but too serious to allow him to run again.

Beechnut had it about her own way in the next three heats, with Ridgeway a close second. Summary:

Pacing Class, 2:45—Purse $400.

Wilkie Knox	1	1	Drawn
Ridgeway	2	3	2	2	2
Beechnut	3	2	1	1	1
Polly T	4	4	3	5	3
Larry Wilkes	5	6	4	4	5
Lesley C	6	5	5	3	4

Time—2:35 1-4, 2:33, 2:38 1-2, 2:43 1-2, 2:43 3-4.

Col. Neal, a plucky little horse, contested the trotting races hotly with Tempest, and for a time sold favorite in the pools. His spurts on the home stretch were wonderful. He sprang at the touch of the whip like a lion and would close up a five-length gap with a side by side struggle, but Tempest, it seemed, was better dri[ven]. Of eight entries only three started, and save for the first heat it was a one, two, three race between Tempest, Col. Neal and Mascot, in the order named.

Col. Neal got the pole in the first and the trio went up the back stretch six lengths apart, Neal leading, Tempest second. Neal broke in the second and lost the heat. The third was more hotly contested and Neal came onto the home stretch neck and neck with Tempest, but the latter took any amount of the whip meekly, while the Colonel shied under its close proximity and broke. This was the secret of Tempest's victory. Neal is the better horse. Summary:

Trotting—Class 2:38—Purse $500.

Col. Neal	1	2	2	2
Tempest	2	1	1	1
Mascot	3	3	3	3

Time—2:45, 2:31 1-2, 2:29 1-2, 2:30 1-2.

The next and last event on the program was the running race. There were six entries and five starters. Hansa, a handsome little chestnut, won two straight heats and the race after a hot contest in the first with Dan Mathews and in the next with Uncle Kit. Summary:

Third race, running, half mile heats—purse $150:

Hansa	1	1
Wanda	4	2
Dan Mathews	2	4
Uncle Kit	3	3
Bessie	5	5

Time—:51 1-2, :51 3-4.

It was close on 7 o'clock when the last race was finished.

On the Grand Stand.

There was a large attendance of ladies yesterday, many of them appearing in elegant costumes. Noticeable upon the grand stand were: Mrs. George Ketcham, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zahn, Mr. and Mrs. George Thomas, Mrs. Will Geroe, Dr. and Ashton Coldham, Dr. and Mrs. Cravens, Miss Dora Messenger, Mrs. M. A. Wilcox, Messrs. H. and A. Webster, Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton, Miss Myrtle Cowdrick, Mr. John Cummings, Mr. G. W. Davis and many others.

It is expected that many ladies will attend the races each day, a number of parties having been formed for this purpost.

A large number of people from out of town were present.

Track Notes.

The bookmakers did not make a fortune yesterday.

Jeff Wheeler makes a good starter and an impartial officer.

Geo. H. Ketcham is booked to drive one of his own horses to-day.

To-morrow will be ladies' day and a large attendance is anticipated.

The reporter's box in front of the grand stand is a great improvement.

The Marine band furnished the music yesterday and did it very well.

There are no flies on the "old man," even if he did fail to win a heat.

Dog races between heats were pleasing features of the day's attractions.

The reporters are under obligations to Secretary Crane for his many courtesies.

Manager Lang promises that the street car facilities will be better to-day. They should be.

Vice President Bellman expressed himself well pleased with the attendance of the opening day.

It is a noticeable fact that Mr. Wheeler allows but few and brief waits between heats. That's right.

Toledoans owe it to themselves to make the meet a success. It is well worthy of a liberal patronage.

Omaha, July 13.—Toledo played a perfect game, but the score is against us:

BOSTON AHEAD

For the First Half of the National League Season.

New York, July 13.—The first division of the National league championship season ends to-day, and the Bostons are winners of the preliminary battle. This is due to the fact that they have played wonderfully good ball.

The other teams are now strengthening their weak points, and as they propose to give the Bostons a hard rub. The patronage throughout the country for the past few weeks has furnished indications that the national game is regaining the popularity it enjoyed before the trouble between the association and the brotherhood was initiated. Strict economy is to govern the second half of the season. Salaries will be reduced, hotel bills and other expenses scaled and altogether it is anticipated that the clubs in the league between them can get through with $100,000 less than has been expended since the opening of the season and up to the present time.

DIXON AND MURPHY TO FIGHT.

New York, July 13.—George Dixon was yesterday matched to fight Johnny Murphy, of Boston, at bantam weight, for $2,500 a side and a purse of $7,500, at the California Athletic club, some time in August.

Ironville Unions hereby challenge the Speranzas for a game of ball on Sunday, July 24, on the Ontario street grounds, corner Chicago and Ontario streets, North Toledo, 2 p. m., sharp, for $2.25 per side. If challenge is accepted answer through Bee. Chris. Nopper, manager; D. Seyenne, captain.

PRIZES FOR TOLEDO BABIES.

Liberal prizes are offered to the prettiest babies who have used lactated food. The contest is creating great interest among mothers, and several in Toledo have announced their intention to compete. Full particulars free by writing to Wells, Richardson & Co., Burlington, Vt., who manufacture this best of foods for infants, invalids, the aged, and all whose digestion is weak.

WORST FORM ECZEMA

Baffled Best Medical Skill for Eight Months. Cured in Two Months by Cuticura Remedies.

This is to certify that a child of mine had Eczema in its worst form, and which baffled the best medical skill that could be employed here. The little sufferer was wrapped in agony for at least eight months. Six months of that time its suffering was simply untold, then I began the use of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, in two months the awful disease had ceased its vengeance, and my darling boy had rest, and to all appearance the disease had yielded, but I continued the medicine for several months after no trace could be seen of it on any part of his body. The doctors here watched the disease with much interest, and could only say "Well done!" The case was known far and wide, and everybody was much surprised. But, thanks to CUTICURA REMEDIES. Could there be anything on earth that would cause a father to rejoice it surely would be when the little innocent one could have such a remedy at hand. (See portrait herewith.)

J. A. NICOLES, Bunker Hill, Ind.

A child was brought to me with chronic eczema that had defied splendid treatment from many good doctors. As a regular M. D., should have continued similar treatment, but thought it useless. So put it on CUTICURAS. The child is well.

RATE DISCRIMINATIONS

A Big Investigation at Chicago

By the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Several Toledo Firms Alleged to Have Received Undue Benefits—Notable Gathering of Railroad Men.

Chicago, July 13.—Justice Harlan's court room in the United States building was crowded this morning as it has not been for many a day. Prominent railway men by the score, as well as representatives of many manufacturing industries were on hand at an early hour.

Their presence was due to the fact that the Interstate Commerce commission was about to commence a sweeping investigation into a large number of alleged infractions of the law for the purpose of bringing to light the manner in which it has been violated by the numerous shippers being given advantages while others have been discriminated against.

Amongst those recognized in the court room were the following: S. B. Knight, general traffic manager of the Wabash, Milton Knight general freight agent of the Wabash; J. M. Osborne, of Toledo, division freight agent Wabash; G. B. Reeves, traffic manager Chicago & Grand Trunk; D. Brown, general freight agent, Grand Trunk; D. C. Cook, general freight agent, Illinois, Indiana & Iowa railroad; General Manager Shonts, of the same line; Chairman J. W. Midgely, of the Western Freight association; George Blanchard, chairman Central Traffic association; Richrd Dole, agent Great Eastern Fast Freight line; M. L. Dougherty, Lehigh & Wabash Dispatch; J. G. Cochrane, general freight agent Erie road; Manager Chamberlain, Erie Dispatch; W. H. Smith, freight agent Lackawana Dispatch; W. G. Brimson, president and general manager Calumey & Blue Island road; D. S. Keefe, of the same line; M. D. Chase, assistant general freight agent Lake Shore road; and the following officers of the Illinois Steel works: W. R. and J. C. Stirling, H. A. Gray, J. R. Long, D. S. Mathias and W. P. Walker.

The investigation is based on the widespread complaint of shippers in Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and Illinois. Most of these shippers are dealers in grain, and the commission has been furnished with voluminous information in support of the charges. Much of this information is directed against the roads directly, but the commission decided that a general investigation would be necessary in order that the facts might be got at.

Among those who are alleged to have benefited by the discrimination and who have filed answers denying the charges, are the following extensive grain dealers: Paddock, Hodge & Co., of Toledo; Gill, Fisher & Co., of Baltimore; Reynolds Bros., of Toledo.

The commissioners assigned to the investigation are Messrs. Deazy, McDill, Clement and Morrison.

The following is the form of document citing the defendants to appear: "Whereas, informal complaint has been made to the Inter-State Commerce Commission that, nothwithstanding the fact that the various railroad companies engaged in transporting passengers and property from Chicago to eastern seaboard points have filed with the Inter-State Commerce Commission tariffs and schedules of rates and charges as required by law, persons representing said companies at Chicago aforesaid solicit transportation at rates less than the rates named in the tariffs filed with the commission and published by them as required by the act to regulate commerce. And

Whereas, it is stated in said complaint that the said carriers resort to ingenious devices whereby rates less than the established rates are given to favored shippers. And Therefore, the Inter-State Commerce Commission of its own motion has decided to investigate said informal complaints by inquiring into the business of the carriers engaged in the transportation of property from Chicago to eastern seaboard points."

THE GIRL AT "CENTRAL."

The Evolution of the Telephone Operator Is Remarkable.

The telephone girl may not be educated, but she must be nice, as they say in the south, and must be possessed of a medium grade of intelligence. She must be able to write a letter, make a clear statement in good English, hold her tongue, keep her temper under every provocation, and give her undivided attention to the business of the office.

Any defect in speech or hearing would necessarily disqualify her for the work. Tact and judgment are indispensable, and lacking one or the other she will break down in a very short time, for nothing so quickly developes a pugnacious tendency as service at a public telephone.

Fifteen years ago, when the instrument was introduced for generl service, the telephone companies employed boys between the ages of 16 and 19, with results that were first disturbing, then discouraging, and finally threatened to be destructive to the interests of the company.

Incessant and emphatic stress was laid upon the necessity for absolute civility of speech on the part of the boys. Terms of expression were reduced to the soul of brevity, so that the language of the office was humorously monosyllabic and all conversation over the wires was prohibited. Rules in letters of brilliant hue and formidable size were posted in conspicuous places, forbidding the operator adding a syllable more than was necessry to answer the subscriber's question.

As a further means of preserving harmony and protecting business interests, monitor operators were stationed in every section to lend ear to the sayings and doings of the boys.

But the average boy is no respector of persons, and when an irritable money-bag or a crusty old bank president, impatient of delay, and wholly ignorant of the war among the wires, was so forgetful of richesse oblige as to dilate on "infernal" things, "lazy puppy" and the like, the impulsive youth quietly but distinctly told the opulent old party to take himself to the place Col. Ingersoll says "is not."

Such flagrant violations of the rules resulted in immediate dismissal; but, notwithstanding, similar offences were of daily occurrence and necessitated the employment of a relay force as large as the original staff of operators, says Electricity.

Everything that could be done by the company to inculcate a spirit of forbearance was done; but boys will be boys, and, unable to knock down the man at the other end who gave them any "sass," they gleefully blew him up, and took the consequences. To employ the services of men of mature judgment and business sagacity would have entailed greater expense than the corporation cared to stand, and, as a last resort, what was deemed a risky experiment was tried—the telephone girl was introduced.

At first she was an old girl, quiet, sedate and thoughtful, with a knowledge of human nature acquired through lost youth, and the scars of experience. She came in modest gray and melancholy black. Her ways were kittenish and also motherly. She brought a piece of soap, a piece of comb and a piece of looking glass, done up in a paper box.

Under the influence of her gentle presence at the switchboard, her fingers at the plugs and cords, her lips at the transmitter and her ear at the telephone, discord dropped to a minimum. There was no more swearing or blowing up, no "back talk," and no serious complaints or threats on the part of subscribers to withdraw patronage; but the service was still but a mediocre success.

The girls were stiff. They lacked malleability and flexibility. They did not seem to adapt themselves to the requirements. By degrees sprightly, girlish girls were taken on the force, also as an experiment, and they "caught on" so readily and swung into line so naturally that all unconsciously they solved the problem of efficient telephone service. From that time the decline of telephone widows and old maids began, and a decided preference was shown for girls less than 25 and more than 16 years of age.

CONSOLING HIM.

"I never shall have faith in woman again," said he bitterly, just after she had refused him.

"Oh, yes you will," said she. "You may not have quite as much faith in yourself next time, but otherwise it will be just the same."—Indianapolis Journal.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT

By a Man Who Was Shooting at a Target.

Yesterady afternoon some stone cutters were working at the junction of the Lake Shore and the Michigan Central, when one of their number, Paul Troutbetter, fell suddenly over. It was found that he had been struck with a bullet. It seems a man was shooting at a target near by and one of his shots went astray. Th einjured man was taken to St. Vincent's hospital. At first it was thought that he was badly injured but this afternoon he is much better. His home is in Niles, Mich.

VERY FILTHY ALLEY.

The One Running from Madison to Jefferson, Back of Summit.

A complaint came to the Bee this morning from a prominent Summit street dealer in regard to the horrible condition of the alley in the rear of the stores between Jefferson and Madison streets. Upon investigation it was found that the dealers in that vicinity were of one mind, and that was that any one happening to be in that location any length of time was liable to die of cholera morbus shortly afterward. The alley has evidently not been cleaned recently, and it would be well for the authorities to take steps toward abating the nuisance if health or decency is to be considered for a moment. At times the stench arising is so odious that it is positively sickening to remain in the rear of the stores. Special attention should be given to these places during this heated season.

SILVER DEBATE.

Lively Fight On in the House.

Both Sides on Hand in Full Force.

The Antics Come Out Ahead and the Free Coinage Bill is Again Postponed.

Washington, July 13.—In anticipation of a parliamentary struggle over the silver bill, the exact nature of which was unsettled, depending upon the existing condition of affairs when it opened, there was an unusually full attendance upon the floor and in the galleries of the house this morning. Unexpectedly to most of the members and to all the spectators, the rule for the consideration of the silver bill was not called up at the opening—11 o'clock.

By request of Mr. Reed, one of the members of the committee on rules, the presentation of the order was postponed until 12 o'clock. The reason given, it is said, was that he could not be present in the first hour, but it is understood that the delay was for the purpose of permitting absent members to reach the city and be in their seats when the contest began.

The hour was spent in routine matters, receiving reports from committees, passage of private pension bills, etc., while the managers of the forces of the two sides were busy on the floor discussing the situation and arranging their plans. Mr. Reed found his way to his seat shortly after the house was called to order and was the center of attraction for the leaders of the antis.

The silver advocates gathered about the desk of Mr. Pierce, of Tennessee, Bland's lieutenant, while Mr. Burrows held a lengthy conference with Speaker Crisp at the desk.

Promptly at 12 o'clock Mr. Catchings, of Mississippi, was on his feet, asking for recognition, but just then a pension bill was being read the third time and passed and he failed to get the floor until 12:02.

He then introduced a report from the committee on rules, making the free coinage bill (senate 51) the special order for to-day and Thursday.

When it was read at the desk Mr. Reed moved to lay the resolution on the table. Speaker Crisp ruled that Mr. Catchings had the floor and could not be taken off. Mr. Reed argued that the house ought to have the right to determine whether or not it shall dispose of the question without argument.

Speaker Crisp ruled that privileged questions could only be made when the gentleman desiring to do so had the floor in his own right.

Under the ruling of the speaker, Mr. Catchings yielded 15 minutes of the hour at his disposal to Mr. Bland.

Mr. Bland sent to the desk a proposed amendment to the bill to cure a defect caused by the repeal of the act of 1890 by which it has been asserted that the silver certificates issued under it would lose their legal tender quality.

A great silver debate followed, the most notable speech being made by Mr. Reed, of Maine, in which he taunted the democratic party with its attitude on this question.

The resolution to consider the free coinage bill to-day and to-morrow was defeated—yeas 136, nays 152. Speaker Crisp voted aye.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS.

The Robisons applied for an injunction this afternoon to restrain the Consolidated from tearing up Ottawa street. Judge Harmon refused to grant the order. Mr. Lang stating that there was no intention to touch the street.

EXCELLENT PAPERS

Read Before the Educational Association.

Ethical Culture the Topic Discussed To-day.

Valuable Points Set Forth—Committees Appointed for the Meeting.

Saratoga, N. Y., July 13.—Another scorching day, such a day as brings the crowds to Saratoga, greeted the delegates to the national educational association this morning. Incoming train this morning brought many more delegates and the capacity of the place, always large, is being tested.

The second day's session began shortly before 10 o'clock in the Methodist church on Washington street. President Cook presided and the discussion of the session was "Ethical Culture." There was a large attendance when President Irwin Shepard, of Winona, Minn., stepped to the front of the platform and began to speak upon "Ethical culture in the kindergarten." In substance he said:

"Ethical Culture in the Kindergarten."

"The more clearly we understand the philosophy of education the nearer to infancy do we fix the time when systematic instruction should begin. Before school life the ethical as well as the intellectual bent is largely determined. Inherited tendencies and ancestral habits must be modified if at all, before they become rigid through exercise. Ethical culture should begin in the home. Froebel recognized this in his 'Mutter and Kose-Lieder. But the home culture is necessarily incomplete. At best it results in moral temperament rather than character. Filial affection may become so self-centered in the family as to be egotistic and hinder ethical growth which springs from the soil of a broader fellowship. The ethical habit is best formed through the interaction of social play. The kindergarten furnishes the essential fellowship of equals and here is first realized the ethical motto "Each for all and all for each." Froebel saw that capricious play seldom gives pleasure and leaves no healthful habit. His ruling thought was simple, truthful purpose in play. "To unfold simple but great truths in a child's mind and interweave them with all his happy hours is the method of ethical culture in the kindergarten. Froebel's first aim was to set the loving and hating on the right track. The moral lessons of the occupations appear, in that nothing is right unless exactly right; that harmony is as essential in social life as color or song; that the law of opposites applies to the right and wrong as truly as to the right and left. A kindergarten gift is not the embodiment of another's thought and labor but furnishes a well earned reward to the young designer and maker.

"The kindergarten teaches perfect self-willing obedience to law in all its work and play. The games afford minimum of theory and maximum of practice in ethics in an atmosphere of happy play where virtue kindles at the touch of joy." In the spiritual training of the kindergarten the child builds his ethical ideals. The clearer the spiritual thread which runs backward to our earliest conceptions of duty the clearer will be our onward view. The kindergarten recognized that childhood is the age of poetry and song. Modern literature has contributed many worthy additions to "Die Mutter und Kose-Lieder." The song of the "Great, wide, beautiful, wonderful world;" Lucy Larcom's glad song of "The Brown Thrush;" Mary Hewitt's "Buttercups and Daisies;" Jane Taylor's "Violet," and the sweetest song of Little Christel are types of the many that deserve and find a place among the child-songs of the kindergarten.

"The kindergarten story as well furnishes means for ethical training, limited only by the genius and skill of the kindergarten to select and adapt from the world of human thought and action. No one visiting a true kindergarten can fail to note the abounding presence of the good, the beautiful and the true in the ideal, in purpose and in action. The kindergarten holds the confidence of the educational world largely through its beautiful ethical culture in an atmosphere in which 'love is the fulfilling of the law.'"

Mrs. Delia Lathrop Williams, of Delaware, O., treated the subject in an admirable paper. In brief she said:

Ethical Culture in Elementary and Secondary Schools.

"There can be no doubt of the necessity and the practicability of direct and methodical moral training in the common schools. It is also practicable to base this training upon the principles of ethical science, so that this phase of school work shall be more empirical and inconsequent than the intellectual training.

"Even though parents exercised the utmost care in the moral training of their children (which they do not) still the home training would require constant reinforcement in the school. The growing intelligence and consequent larger outlook upon life, bring with them new ethical inquiries, and the circumstances attending the constant association of large numbers of children not only give rise to new moral questions, but tend to break down established moral restraints.

"Formal ethical instruction is much more difficult than intellectual training. Teachers have made preparations for the latter, but have not studied the science of ethics so as to be familiar with its facts, their order of sequence, the terminology and the relation of the intellectual and moral faculties. Without this fundametnal knowledge the teaching of morals is without plan—mere vote work.

"Again, moral instruction requires contact, heart to heart relation, but the numbers are so large in the school that teachers find it difficult to become intimately acquainted with individual pupils. Still again, character is of slow growth. No examination can test it. The teacher sees no immediate returns for his work and loses heart. His faith in his work is not strong enough to beget a patience that never fails him.

"A capable and strong teacher who bears about with him a character flawless under the keen scrutiny of children is an almost omnipotent factor in the formation of the character of his pupils. Virtue goes out of him. Only such a man can successfully give formal moral instruction. An artist may hide behind his pictures, an author may live his life outside his books, but the teacher and the man are inseparable. Formal lessons in ethics should be given. Such lessons must exercise the intellect and train the moral judgment, the feelings, and enlist them on the side of the virtues; the will that it may make right choices and stand firm in the stress of temptation.

"These lessons are best given in the concrete, by incident or story from real life. They should be specific, aiming at a single phase of character. They should teach the value of motive, and the fact of personal responsibility.

"The memorizing of a poetical selection embodying the teaching of the lesson may profitably be its culmination.

Chancellor James H. Canfield, of Lincoln, Neb., detailed the relations of ethical culture to the college and university in a very interesting way. He said:

Ethical Culture in the College and the University.

The topic is too broad for a satisfactory discussion within the limits of time. There will necessarily be misunderstanding and misquotation on the part of those who hear. The subject is unfortunate also because it undertakes to cover the proper instruction in two wholly different fields. The college and the university are [illegible] in this country already.

Precept and direct control characterize the one; influence marks the life of the other.

The cultivation of the intellect alone will not answer the purposes of wise education. Education may lift men above the more common crimes, but it often seems to present unusual temptations to greater wickedness. All true education, therefore, should have an ethical purpose. The main business of education is twofold: to secure power in man, and to secure dignity in man. It must make man honorable, and it must make man beneficent. The three powers which are conditions of this life are right thought, right feeling and right action. The greatest of these is right feeling. Thought and feeling go together like light and heat.

Leaving others to dispute about masters and scholars, the speaker pushed out the two strongest conditions or factors in ethical culture; the ethical atmosphere of the institution and the ethical influence of the faculty.

The strongest form of moral influence is that which comes from loving and unselfish contact. The prime necessity then, in any institution that is to give strength to those under its influence, is a large and sympathetic life. The education must be that which tends to the breaking down of barren pride and aloftness and reserve. The institution may not exist for a given class and may not separate rather than unite society. It must labor faithfully and intelligently for the common welfare and the common advancement of all. The true ethical spirit does not love scholarship and erudition for their own sake; it does not make these ends rather than means. There should always be constant unity between the college and the activities of life. A true scholarly spirit is always tempered by the constant and ethical recognition of personal and institutional relationship. The institution must have a strong and brave life and a certain large and well defined publicity of life.

It must prefer a market place to scholastic cloisters and it will not choose the fossil leaf of past ages while it can grasp the green blades and branches of the present.

Institutions that forget that the first object and one of all wise institutions is to seek the truth and that the truth may only be found the freest investigation and research and discussion are sadly afflicted with ethical weakness.

The substitution of teaching tenets, secular or religious in place of teaching the truth, is constantly undermining the ethical strength of every student under such influence. The power and influence of the individual instructors touch the student more keenly and helpfully or otherwise than even the institutional life and spirit. Manliness should be the first and most essential characteristic in all worthy instructors. The characteristics of this manliness are an ever present sense of opportunity and duty, unceasing industry, unwearied patience, the strictest honesty and integrity, the most unswerving candor and good faith, impartial justice, high heroism that makes the man ready and willing and glad to be worn out in gratuitous and generous service, reverence which gives man his true place in the economy of God. Withal, there must be friendship, sympathy and affectionate regard for all under care.

Discussion upon the papers was then led by Dr. E. E. White, of Cincinnati, and President George W. Price, of Nashville, Tenn., after which there were questions asked generally and answered by the readers of the papers.

The president announced the following committees:

Resolutions—John E. Bradley, Minnesota, chairman; B. G. Northrop, Connecticut; John S. Combie, New York; H. C. Dougherty, Illinois; W. H. Bartholomew, Kentucky.

Necrology—C. W. Bardeen, New York, chairman; G. P. Brown, Illinois; Henry Sabin, Iowa; W. E. Sheldon, Massachusetts; Mr. Lampson, editor Southwestern Journal of Education.

A committee on nominations, consisting of one from each state was named, and a recess was taken until 8:15 this evening.

Mr. Stevenson and the Miners.

The cry of "copperhead" is not very effective argument against a candidate, but if it is the best that can be mustered, republicans can be excused. While Mr. Reid was ratifying his bargain with union workingmen, whose enemy he had been, and while thousands of soldiers were closing around "protected" Homestead to enforce the decree of wage reduction at the point of the bayonet, the miners of the McLean County Coal company, in Mr. Stevenson's employ, were marching to his home, double-file, with drum corps and national flag to say these cheering words:

We have called upon you this evening to extend our most hearty congratulations for the honor recently bestowed upon you. To be nominated for the office of vice-president, the second highest position in the gift of the people, is an honor of which any one may well feel proud, and as citizens of the town in which you live we are proud of the great distinction and especially are proud of the fact that this honor has been bestowed on one with whom we have been so closely allied in a business way for so many years. It is with much gratification that we can look back over the past years that we have been in the employ of the McLean County Coal company, for in all these years no pay day has ever passed that we have not been paid our wages in full.

Few disagreements have ever arisen and these have been quickly and amicably settled, and we cannot relate any instance where the company has treated us unfairly and many a happy home has been erected in Stevensonville that would never have been there except for the kindness and consideration shown many of us both by yourself and your brothers. These things we have not forgotten and we are here this evening to extend in the warmest terms our hearty congratulations, feeling assured that in you we have a friend, one that will stand for right and one that has the laboring interest at heart. I have been asked by my fellow laborers to make this acknowledgment to you and we have come this evening for that purpose, not as any political organization, for we represent both of the great political parties, but as your friends and co-laborers, to extend our hands and our best wishes for your success always.

To which Mr. Stevenson replied in the following noble and significant words:

The most kindly and cordial feeling should ever exist between the employer and employes. All disagreements should be settled either by conference or by arbitration. It has been my firm conviction for years that organization looking solely to the bettering of their condition and the protection of their rights is a necessity to the wage-earners. By appropriate legislation when needed, but especially by the management of all the industrial enterprises of the country, the hours of toil should be lessened. This would give to wage-earners more time for the enjoyment of his home and the society of his family. I take pleasure now in tendering you the hospitality of my home.

Death of Cyrus W. Field.

There is scarcely anything more pathetic in recorded human history than the wreck of the Field family and the death of the great man who was its father and head. A few years ago two continents did him merited honor. His faith, perseverance and labor had linked the old world with the new. Wealth and fame, deserved and earned, were showered upon him. His broad breast was covered with prize medals and badges of gold and precious gems worthily bestowed by the nations whom he had benefited. To bear his name was a distinction of which to be proud. But when the heat of the day and its labor and achievement were over, and it was his right to sit in the pleasant shadow of his own beautiful "vine and fig tree," the darkest storm of adversity that can cloud a man's fate lowered upon him. His heart was pierced with the serpent's tooth of ingratitude and disgrace, and like poor old Lear, its poison utterly destroyed him. One woe trod upon another's heels, in his family, so swift did they follow. His wife died a few days before the exposure of the son's crime. A beloved daughter passed away, her death hastened by the great sorrow that had come upon them. Crime, disgrace, insanity, death—fearful illustration of the far-reaching effects of one person's sin.

Mr. Field was born in Stockbridge, Mass., in 1819, making him 73 years old at the time of his death; a man of remarkable vigor until the culmination of sorrows overwhelmed him. His ocean cable enterprise was entered upon in 1853. Two years were spent in building the necessary land lines. Three times the trial to lay the cable was made, and resulted in failure. All those interested, except Mr. Field, became disheartened. After the close of the war the Great Eastern was built to bear the cable oversea, and the success and consequent rejoicing are recent history.

"Died of a broken heart" may be written on the tomb of Mr. Field, but alive forever will be his name and fame while the history of the world's progress remains on printed page or in the memories of men. The people of both continents will say amen to the pean of praise and to the benediction of peace that could come to him only from the hand of death.

Carnegie "The Philanthropist."

Andrew Carnegie stands pretty good show of becoming thoroughly despised on both continents. In America he stands for the government beneficiary, who has amassed a colossal fortune chiefly through favoritism, misrepresentation and "influence," and who basely betrays his countrymen and his workingmen alike by retiring to his lordly estates in the United Kingdom and leaving a sworn enemy to organized labor to reduce wages and lock out workingmen. He is detested in England, as is shown by any number of newspaper references in that country as well as this. Harold Frederic, London correspondent of the New York Times, said in his last letter:

I never met but one Englishman who did not speak of him in tones of contempt, and this exception told me how he himself heard Carnegie declare to a dinner party of Englishmen that the tariff and tariff millionaires were possible in America only because the American people were in economic matters unexampled fools.

This lord of a half dozen castles said he was "much grieved" at the slaughter at Homestead, but he had put the business in competent hands and declined to express any opinion or to interfere. Then he climbed into his gorgeous coach, behind his four nobly caparisoned greys and bowled away with a merry party from his castle to his hunting park.

The most sensational stories are in circulation about the accusations of bribery in the council. Until the grand jury reports its findings nothing definite will be known, but charges and counter charges are rife to-day. The grand jury is composed of high-minded citizens who will be fearless in the performance of their duty. It is understood that the accused are from both political parties and it is said that a regular combine is in existence. The clear light of investigation may give another color to the rumors, but, come what may, public sentiment sustains the most thorough and complete investigation.

There was no sentiment or nonsense about the way Gen. Snowden, commanding the Pennsylvania troops, met the strikers' committee. He wanted no reception, no addresses, no demonstration. He was there to command the peace and enforce the peace. The military brusqueness of his remarks had an awesome and quieting effect on the multitude.

Miss Knowles has been nominated by the People's party of Montana for the office of attorney general. The constitution does not say a woman is not eligible, but it reads "he" all through the section concerning qualifications. Since these things have come to pass we need a comprehensive pronoun for "he or she." Custom has made "they" allowable, but it is not quite satisfactory.

The conflict between union and non-union labor assumes a serious aspect in the Idaho mining district, where the Winchester took the place of argument. So serious is the situation that upon the request of the Governor, President Harrison has ordered troops to the scene of action to preserve the peace.

The anxiety of anti-silver republicans that the House pass the free coinage bill is easily understood. They desire that Harrison may have chance to bolster up his waning strength in the east by his veto of such a bill.

There was certainly something unique in the spectacle: thousands of state soldiers moving on Homestead and the men whom they were sent to subdue arranging to receive them as if a picnic were in anticipation.

The President has signed the river and harbor bill, which includes items for deep water connection between the lakes. The Toledo harbor is also well provided for in this bill.

While soldiers are in possession of Homestead peace and quiet prevails. The fear is that more trouble will follow the withdrawal of the troops.

POLITICS IN FULTON.

Republican Scrap Over the Auditorship.

Three Willing Candidates Now in the Race and a Dark Horse Mentioned.

Wauseon, O., July 13.—(Special)—Among politicians the coming republican county convention, which is announced for Monday, July 25, is the center of attraction. The contets will be for the two principal offices to be filled at the elections this fall. They are auditor and sheriff. For the former office there are three known candidates, viz: Jos. Brailey, our postmaster, and who was so unfortunate as to espouse the late lamented boom of J. Benson Foraker for United States senator; T. A. Kelley, ex-treasurer, and Elias Wise, of Archbald.

The sagacious heads of the party in various parts of the county have evidently come to the conclusion that the harmony produced by the nomination of either of these candidates would end a good deal like the harmony the Kilkenny cats struggled so disastrously for.

This judgment is arrived at from the conference that is reported to have been held in a sequestered place in Fayette week before last. From what could be learned men were in that meeting who love the triumph of their party better than the success of individuals, especially when the latter love their party only for the offices it has made.

When such men as O. Merrill, Jas. Harrison, D. W. H. Howard, Isaac Springer, L. G. Ely, Dr. Rorick, A. G. Daniels, A. L. Sergant and others who have given character to the republican party in Fulton county, take an interest in such consultations, or have their representatives present, there is something going to be done. It is said that the result of their deliberations was that it is necessary to have a dark horse as a candidate for auditor. In making such a selection it is necessary that the man be one who is or has not been identified with factional fights, and one who has not foundered himself running after any office or all offices in the gift of the people. He must be like Caesar's wife, above suspicion.

The conclusions are said to have been that the nomination of such a man would lead the party to glorious victory, and furthermore save an immense amount of work to elect him and great anxiety as to the outcome of the contest.

Such a man was centered on. He is one who, when the party was hopelessly demoralized and on the verge of an utter rout, led the republican hosts of Fulton county from the jaws of defeat. He is a man whose name is the synonym of honesty. He is a man whose nomination would roll up the same majority that it did 13 years ago. His name is Charles L. Allen.

MACCABEES AT LAKESIDE.

Lakeside, O., July 13.—(Special.)—The Maccabees are holding an enthusiastic convention in the auditorium. They gave a public entertainment last night and an excellent program was rendered consisting of music, recitations and addresses.

Among those who took part are Sir Knight Ed L. Young, Hon. G. J. Seigle, Hon. D. P. Markey, Rev. T. F. Hildreth, and Maj. N. S. Boynton.

To-day there will be a grand Maccabee excursion to the islands leaving at 2 p. m.

A stereoptican entertainment will be given this evening.

THE NOTION OF PIPING COAL.

Apropos of the proposal to pipe coal to the seaboard, the quantity of coal that can be carried by pipe in a given time is astonishing. A pipe of 4 inches diameter at 1,200 pounds pressure per square inch will deliver over 300 tons per day; a 12-inch pipe will deliver 5,000 tons, and a 24-inch pipe will deliver 28,000 tons per 24 hours. It is proposed, in carrying out this principle on a large scale, to have pumping stations from 30 miles apart, according to grade.

IT WAS GREAT.

Formal Opening of Hotel Victory at Put-in-Bay.

Visitors by the Thousands Attend the Banquet,

And the Hop in the Evening Proved a Brilliant Affair.

An Era of Success Assured from the Beginning.

Some of the Notables Who are Present—What the Bee Discovered During the Day and Night.

Yesterday and last night demonstrated that Hotel Victory is a success, that there are no ifs or ands about it and that this great resort so near Toledo will end the season with a world-wide reputation. At first it was President Tillotson's belief that the north and south trunk lines to Toledo, Sandusky and Cleveland were the arteries for summer travel to Hotel Victory, but he was agreeably surprised at the very outset by arrivals from New York city, Pittsburg, Chicago and other east and west points. One of the first parties to arrive was from Pittsburg and consisted of fourteen persons, ladies and gentlemen.

Applications for rates are coming in from all quarters and there will be no end of society and association meetings here during the summer. All the roads centering in Toledo are bending their efforts to build up the summer travel in this direction and already the great southern lines stretching southward from Cincinnati, St. Louis and Louisville are advertising Hotel Victory and arranging for tourist rates via the Big Four, C., H. and D. and Wabash. With all the lines centering in these cities in full sympathy with Mr. Tillotson there is bound to be some tall hustling and active agitating to direct the tired and dusty citizen toward the cooling breezes of lake Erie and the enjoying repasts of Manager Weaver. This means business for the steamboats and it means a fashionable resort that will be indeed the Newport of the west.

Justice Brown, of the United States supreme court, was surprised to find everything here on such an elegant scale. The furnishing of Hotel Victory is fully up to the fashionable eastern watering places, the dining room service is unsurpassed and nature has bestowed no more picturesque beauty elsewhere east, west, south or north. The site of Hotel Victory is magnificent. The charming lack of monotony in the landscape rests the eye and the tourist finds here that rest from business cares, that recreation of the mind, that surcease from sorrow, that wholesome quiet and seclusion one seeks in the heated season of the year. The evenings are cool and sleep comes, as they say in song, "like a summer sigh, softly o'er you stealing," and he who wants rest will find it here. An excellent indication of what effect the first visit has on guests is the fact that every one has found here more than he expected. The surprise is a pleasurable one and the only disappointment is in having realization far exceed anticipation.

Last night guests were from all quarters, and even after the big boats were in, small parties arrived on lesser boats, and ladies and gentlemen came in full dress from towns near by. The orchestra is another surprise. In fact everything a surprise. Hotel Victory is a surprise. Created as a thought, an idea four years ago, it has grown and grown and grown. Wonders have been worked. The building of this hotel is one of the greatest financial achievements of later days.

There are over 300 employes connected with the establishment, every one an artist in his line. Manager Weaver has a national reputation as the result of great success in his calling. He is a keen observer, a good judge of human nature and a connoisseur on appetites. He has gathered about him an efficient and obliging staff of clerks and a first-class steward. The following menu of yesterday's banquet will give an idea of what people find to eat at Hotel Victory:

Consomme Printaniere.
Baked White Fish, Sauce Genoise
Montillado
Potato Croquettes.
Sliced Cucumbers Queen Olives
Sautern.

Fillet of Beef, Larded (?) a la Regence.
String Beans

Sweet Breads Glace a la Morland
Mashed Potatoes Claret
Ribs of Beef Spring Lamb, Mint Sauce
Sweet Corn
Baked Sweet Potatoes Victory Punch

Roast Young Chicken, with Dressing
Lobster Salad Champagne
Lettuce Salad.

Fruit Pudding, Brandy Sauce
Assorted Cake Pistachio Ice Cream

Lemon Meringue Pie
Fruit Mixed Nuts Water Melon
Cheese Water Cracker
Coffee

The banquet was served by 125 waiters in uniform. The tables were decorated with plants and flowers and the great dining room was a picture that would make the eyes of metropolitan hotel managers pop open with surprise. During the night the ball room was crowded, likewise the great reception rooms and the big parlors. The ball was held in the ordinary, a room large enough to hold some hotels. The costumes were chiefly of light summer material, white slippers being popular with the ladies, while with the gentlemen tennis and yachting costumes vied with the conventional black. Cottagers on the island, guests of the hotels, society folks from Middle Bass, Port Clinton, Sandusky, Detroit, Cleveland and a few from Toledo all took part in the festivities. The music was delightful.

Dancing will be the order every evening at Hotel Victory from now on, and the evenings will be few and far between when society people from near-by cities will not be here to meet and dance with the southern society people, guests at the hotel. What with private banquets, nightly balls, tennis tournaments, association meetings and other attractions sure to be evolved from the fertile mind of President Tillotson, the first summer season of Hotel Victory will be one long remembered with pleasure.

Gov. McKinley and staff will arrive this morning, he having telegraphed for rooms for himself and 12. The gubernatorial party will probably be here several days. Hon. Chas. Foster, Senator Sherman and Senator Brice will be here some time during the summer, and there is some talk of a meeting of the national republican committee holding a meeting here during the latter part of July or the early part of August. Hon. Wm. Hahn, the Ohio member, was here for a few days last week and was so favorably impressed that he said he would try and get a meeting held here. Many of the big railway officials are also coming with their families, and the grand rush will begin the latter part of this week or the first of next.

Of the history of Hotel Victory there is so much to say that one can scarcely do it justice. Mr. J. K. Tillotson conceived the idea four years ago, and with him to think was to act. He started on to win in the face of derding opposition, carried the project through innumerable ups and downs to an absolutely unqualified success. He knew the people wanted such a resort and ever willing to patronize it. On this knowledge he based his efforts. He has bought the land, built the greatest summer hotel in the world, constructed an electric railway and made business for all the railroads centering in Cleveland, Toledo, Detroit and Sandusky and all the steamboats running out of these ports. As for Put-in-Bay the transformation is remarkable.

The Inaugural Ball.

The inaugural ball in the evening was a most brilliant affair.

One of the spacious dining rooms was devoted to the pleasures of this event.

Decorations in profusion, arranged in artistic taste, ladies resplendent in rich costumes, dancers gyrating in the mellow light of hundreds of incandescents, to the entrancing air of delightful music, presented a scene of radiant beauty.

The weather during the day had been exceedingly sultry, but in the evening a refreshing breeze from over the lake prevailed, which rendered dancing in July an absolute pleasure.

The following was the program of dances for the evening:

1. Grand March—Fest Chantilly.
2. Polka—What the Dickey Birds Say—Erminie.
3. Quadrille—Vassar.
4. Schottische—Amelie.
5. Yorke—Newport.
6. Berlin—Love Letter.
7. Waltz—The Yeoman of the Guard.
8. Lancers—Clover.
9. Oxford Minuet—The Yale.
10. Two Step—The Dudes.
11. Waltz—Athem.
12. Lancers—The Brigands.
13. Schottische—Victory.
14. Polka—Medley.
15. Waltz—Home, Sweet Home.

Excursion parties arrived at almost every hour in the day. The Big Four, B. & O., L. E. & W., C., H. & D., Wabash and other railroads connecting with steamboat lines, run excursions to connect with steamboat accommodations. In the afternoon and evening the City of Sandusky, City of Cleveland, and other boats ran special excursions for various parties made up to attend the ball.

A number of yachting parties also attended. The following party arrived on the steamer Leroy Brooks, from Middle Bass: Misses Kate Hafer, Clarke, Suydam, Dodge, Dougherty, Sawyer, Mrs. E. C. Shaw, Mrs. Oliver Rogers.

STATE BAR ASSOCIATION.

Members Gathering to Attend the Annual Session.

Put-in-Bay, July 13.—(Special)—Members of the State Bar association arrived from all over the state on every incoming boat yesterday, and to-day fully 300 are in attendance.

The executive committee on judicial administration and legal reform met yesterday afternoon, but as there was not a quorum present adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning.

Among prominent members of the association the following have arrived: Justice Brown, of the Supreme court of the United States; Gov. McKinley, Judge S. G. Williamson, of Cleveland; Hon. Edward H. Fitch, of Jefferson; Prof. Baldwin, of Yale; Judge Spear, chief justice of the supreme court of Ohio; Judge F. W. Moore, of the superior court of Cincinnati; Judge Wilson, of Cincinnati; Judge Buckwalter, of Cincinnati; Judge Hannon, of Cincinnati; Gen. Young, of Youngstown; Judge Burket, of Findlay; Judge Shauck, of Dayton; G. R. Harris, of Bucyrus; Col. J. T. Holmes, of Columbus; Col. James D. Sullivan, of Columbus; Mr. Arnold, of Columbus; Fred C. Bryan, of Akron, secretary of the association; Col. C. W. Gerrard, of Cincinnati; Hon. Jno. W. Herron, United States district attorney, of Cincinnati, Jno. M. Sprigg, of Dayton, Judge Pike, of Toledo; Hon. Charles Platt, of Toledo; Harvey Scribner, of Toledo; Mr. Albery, of Columbus.

Justice Brown, of the supreme court of the United States, arrived yesterday morning on an early boat from Detroit. He immediately retired to his room and it was noon before the members of he bar at Hotel Victory were aware of his presence. The justice was seated on one of the many pleasant piazas of the hotel enjoying the refreshing lake breezes when encountered by a Bee.

"I am out of politics, altogether, and have all I can do deciding cases. At present I am indulging in a few weeks' much needed rest and recreation, which I intend to seek about my home at Detroit. I received a cordial invitation to be present at the meeting of the State Bar association of Ohio. I have seen a great many summer hotels, but this Hotel Victory is certainly the most extensive and complete in appointment of any in the country. This is my first visit to Put-in-Bay, and I must say that I am most favorably impressed with its picturesque beauty and delightful breezes. Put-in-Bay doubtless has a bright future as a watering place."

The committee on judicial administration and legal reform will report to-day. It will recommend additions and amendments to the insolvent laws to prevent insolvent debtors from preferring creditors on making assignments. It will also recommend the adoption of the Australian system of registration of realty conveyances, full particulars of which appeared in the Bee some time ago. The committee is also in favor of appointing a commission to aid the supreme court in disposing of the accumulated business on the supreme court docket.

THE SOLICITORS

Of the Various Cities in Convention Assembled.

Put-in-Bay, July 13.—(Special)—The City Solicitors' Association of the State met at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, it being the first annual meeting of the organization.

Edward Kibler, of Newark, was chosen temporary chairman, and R. B. Moore, of Bowling Green, secretary. The following committee on constitution and by-laws was elected: Edward Kibler, J. A. Justice and B. W. Fickles.

A committee on program, consisting of J. E. Pickering and R. B. Moore, was appointed.

During the evening session a constitution similar to that adopted by the county prosecutors was adopted. A membership fee of $2 will be charged. Ex-solicitors will be admitted to membership and the privilege of holding office by contributing the regular membership fee.

A number of important questions were discussed.

At the meeting held this morning the committee on election of officers recommended the following choice of officers, which was approved: President, T. S. Monnett, Bucyrus; first vice president, J. A. Justice, Youngstown; second vice president, Isaac Humphrey, Zanesville; secretary, R. B. Moore, Bowling Green; treasurer, J. E. Pickering, Warren; executive committee, B. W. Fickles, Mansfield; T. M. Shea, Bellefontaine; Edward Kibler, Newark; judiciary committee, Edward Kibler, Newark; Isaac Humphrey, Zanesville; J. A. Justice, Youngstown; R. B. Moore, Bowling Green; J. A. Pickering, Warren.

The president was also made exofficio member of this committee.

The judiciary committee was instructed to urge upon the legislature the necessity of there codification of the municipal code. A meeting of the association will be held at Columbus during the winter for this purpose.

The meeting adjourned until 8 o'clock this evening.

The County Clerks.

A meeting of the association of clerks of the court of common pleas was called for 10 o'clock this morning, but the members have been slow in answering. The meeting will probably be called this afternoon. The following named clerks have arrived: H. Parks, Hardin, O.; Hugh Neal, Knox; O. S. Cheney, Champaign; N. F. Reemain, Logan; A. C. Moore, Wood; W. V. Whitney, Scioto; W. C. Wieman, Ottawa; B. F. Perry, Trumbull; L. K. Rook, Huron; J. P. Bronson, Lucas; C. L Prue, deputy, Lucas.

County Clerk Schnuttschulte, of Putnam county, has a grievance to submit to the clerks' meeting in regard to the performance of Garber salary law, by the provisions of which he is holding office.

LOSS OF LIFE

And Damage to Crops by Hailstorms in Minnesota.

St. Paul, Minn., July 13.—Hailstorms occurred Monday night and yesterday in various parts of Minnesota which caused considerable damage to crops and some loss of life. Albert Ryan was killed by lightning near Grand Forks, N. D., and Ne's Nesheim and child were killed near Fergus Falls, Minn. A terrific hail storm passed over Stanton, N. D., and vicinity, yesterday afternoon, destroying crops and damaging property. The Mercer court house windows in the north side were broken in and the rain poured in, damaging the contents of the building.

ALIVE BUT PROBABLY INSANE.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., July 13.—Terence O'Brien, 70 years old, foreman in the Gaylor shaft at Plymouth, was found by a searching party last night. He was lost in the mine for 52 hours, during which time he was without food. O'Brien's light went out while he was working on Sunday, and in some manner he wandered off in an old heading. It is feared he will go crazy from the terrible strain upon his mind.

WITHOUT WARNING

A Storm Brings Disaster and Death.

Pleasure Steamer Capsized at Peoria, Illinois,

And Many Lives Lost in the Angry Waters.

Nearly One Hundred Small Boats Unaccountd For.

A Peaceful Scene of Merry-Making Instantly Turned Into One of Horror and Death.

Peoria, Ill., July 13.—A terrific storm swept over this city at 10 o'clock last evening. It came without a moment's warning and caught hundreds of people out on the lake.

The most appalling disaster was caused by the capsizing of the pleasure steamer Frankie Folsom, from Pekin, and the drowning of eighteen people. She had forty passengers on board who had been at Lake View park attending a performance of "The Fall of Pompeii."

She had been backed out from the landing and was making the turn to go down the river when the cyclone struck her and keeled her over. There was a mad rush for the side of the boat and many persons were trampled on and rendered more easy victims to the waves which swept over the luckless boat.

The accident happened at the foot of Caroline street and far away from any boat house. The cries of the people on the boat were finally heard and an effort was made to take them off. A terrible storm was raging and it was suicide to go out in a small boat.

There was not an available tug in any of the harbors but the Longfellow hurried her passengers on shore in the storm and went to the rescue. A pitiful scene awaited them. Hanging over the rails of the boat were the limp bodies of four women. They had been pulled out of the cabin by their friends, dead.

Men on the top of the boat were fighting like tigers for a safe place. Force had to be used to keep the crazy people from swamping the life boat.

Sam Sutton, circuit clerk of Tazewell county, was in the second boat off from the wreck. He saved his wife by diving down into the cabin of the sunken boat. He brought her up in a senseless condition but it is thought she will live. He said the accident was caused by the pilot becoming scared when the storm struck them. Had he kept the boat headed for the willows on the opposite bank there would have been no danger of it capsizing. His discription of the scene is realistic.

When the storm struck the boat there was the wildest scene imaginable. Men and women huddled to the side from the shore, and when the boat careened over many were swept off. The vessel settled rapidly to the bottom of the river and every gust of the tornado would sweep some poor unfortunate off into the waves. The wind was blowing directly off shore but the screams of the women and the hoarse shouts of the men could be heard above the fury of the storm.

As soon as news of the wreck reached the police station every man on the force was ordered to the scene. Mayor Warner ordered all the hacks in the city to the scene and as people were brought to shore they were taken to the city hall where they were made comfortable. The scene at the river bank was pitiful in the extreme. Friends of those on the boat stood out in the storm awaiting the return of every life boat.

When the storm broke the lake and river were filled with boats of every description. There are over two hundred pleasure boats at the yards, and at an early hour this morning only 96 of them have been accounted for. John Bard was caught about 100 yards from the shore and had great difficulty in getting ashore. While standing in the shelter of a house he saw several small boats go whirling down the river, and there is little doubt that their occupants have found a grave in the angry waters.

There are now eight bodies at the morgue taken off the steamer Folsom. Five of them are women and only three have been identified. They are those who were caught near the escaping steam, and their features are cooked until they are unrecognizable.

WELL, WE WERE THERE

In the Fullest Kind of Shape Last Night.

The Toledo Press Club, With the Assistance of Friends, Entertains in Its Usual Successful Manner.

The Press club feels proud of its moonlight excursion on the City of Toledo last evening. In the first place because 800 of Toledo's best citizens graced the event with their presence, and secondly because the boys that could sing and play came to the front nobly and gave a charming entertainment that did much toward making the evening one of perfect enjoyment.

The indispensable W. S. Stackhouse took his seat at the piano at 9:30 o'clock and struck up a rollicking song of the sea, in which 20 male voices joined. A solo and chorus, "Way down yender in de corn field," followed. Mr. Stackhouse then fingered the keys in one of his inspiring selections that set the audience's feet going.

The Toledo Mandolin club, composed of G. E. Collingwood, R. P. Brown, S. V. Thomas, B. F. Bliss, J. S. Draper, Harry Snell and Ed Clement, played a selection that surprised and delighted the audience. The cabin of a steamer, with the low ceilings, noise of the machinery, etc., is not the most favorable location in the world for the rendition of a musical number, and the members of the Mandolin club, as well as the other performances, could hardly do themselves justice. However, the concert went off flying and everybody received one or more encores.

Carl Wuerfel's rich bass voice was heard to advantage in Nancy Lee, which was selected as being a most appropriate song for a boat ride.

The vocalists joined in the chorus and the song went in a rollicking manner.

The O. N. D. Banjo club is an organization of young Toledoans that gets about as much music out of the plinkey-plunk instrument as the inventor could desire. Their music was excellent, and with the Mandolin club they could give the college organizations some pointers. The members of the banjo club are Maynard Kinney, H. P. Dodge, Frank Galloway, Frank Baumgardner, Lyman Wheeler, Robert Cummings and Harry Cummings.

George W. Leibius sang "When the Old Church Clock Struck Ten." He was applauded before and after his song, and was obliged to respond once more. 'Tis useless to say that Mr. Leibius sang well, as everyone knows he has a magnificent voice. Mrs. Leibius was the accompanist.

Bert St. John, somehow or other, always makes a hit. Perhaps it is because everything he attempts he does well. His new song, "That's the time a nigger feels glad," went like hot cakes. He was obliged to respond to two encores, and could have taken half a dozen if he had so desired.

Herman Hahn was enthusiastically applauded as he came to the front for his solo. By request he sang Sailing. It was a pleasure for his numrous friends to hear him once again in concert as he has not appeared much of late owing to the press of other affairs.

Bert St. John and Geo. W. Stevens sang a humorous duet, "Said Aaron to Moses," and were twice encored.

The concert closed with a chorus, "Don't You Hear Dem Bells." All the participants in the concert sang in the choruses as well as Gus Leibius and Roy Conklin.

Everybody said it was a bang up concert, and the Press club thinks they are right.

The club will be handsomely benefited and will put the money where it will do the most good in entertaining visiting bodies and generally booming the Future Great.

The warmest thanks of the club are due to Manager Colton of the City of Toledo for the kindness shown in donating the use of the handsome steamer free, to the talented gentlemen who so ably assisted in the entertainment, to the citizens who made the affair a financial success by their presence, to Larry McCarty, Capt. McNelly, the genial captain, and his corps of oblizing officials, and all others who lent their aid in the affair.

SMALL MAJORITY.

Gladstone's Victory a Costly one.

And He is Returned by only a Small Majority.

Great Excitement in England Over the Result—The "Grand Old Man's" Opponent a Worthy One.

London, July 13.—The narrow escape of Mr. Gladstone from defeat in Midlothian has caused intense excitement. His conservative opponent, Col. Andrew Gilbert Wauchope, is a soldier with a gallant record, a C. B. and C. M. G., personally beyond reproach either as to his civil or military career. Col. Wauchope presented no obstacle to drawing out the full conservative and liberal unionist vote of Midlothian and the story told by the figures to-day, shows how thoroughly that vote was drawn out. The electorate of Midlothian is 13,234, and to-day's vote was Gladstone 5,845, and Wauchope 5,155, showing that nearly 11,000 electors cast their ballots.

In 1885 Mr. Gladstone was elected by a vote of 7,879 to 3,348 for Dalrymple, conservative.

In 1886 Mr. Gladstone was returned unopposed. The liberal majority of 4,631 in 1885 is now down to 690. This is a victory only less disastrous than defeat. Col. Wauchope is overwhelmed with congratulations by his tory friends as much as if he was the victor, while from all parts of Scotland telegrams have poured into the colonel, who, brave soldier as he is, with a record of gallantry as an officer of the Blackwatch in Ashantee and Egypt, is said to be astonished at the fame thrust upon him.

He has the prestige of being a native of the soil, whereas Mr. Gladstone, although of Scottish ancestry, was born in England. Col. Wauchope is a Midlothian laird as well as a soldier, and a generous landlord at that, and this fact gave him great strength with the farmers. Up to the declaration of the result to-day, the conservatives seemed to believe that Gladstone was beaten, and this confidence on their part naturally added to the anxiety of the liberals.

The excitement in London has not been so intense since the beginning of the elections. The unionists cheered as loud as the Gladstonians. This aroused resentment of the latter and the more intense parties nearly came to blows. Quiet was not restored for hours. The news was borne swiftly to the clubs, and liberal congratulations were mingled with regrets over the smallness of the majority.

Mr. Gladstone received the news with calmness. Whatever his feelings may have been he gave no expression to them. This afternoon Mr. Gladstone leaves Dalmeny park, where he has been the guest of Lord Roseberry, to enjoy a period of rest and recreation at Braemar.

In Edinburgh the news caused the wildest excitement. Throngs were assembled since early morning waiting for the result, which was clearly disappointing to Mr. Gladstone's admirers.

Other returns are as follows: England—Cheshire, Hyde division, J. W. Sidebotham, conservative, re-elected, 4,525; T. G. Ashton, liberal, 4,270.

Sussex, Chichester, Lord Walter Gordon Lennox, re-elected, 4,236; Herbert J. Reid, liberal, 2,361.

Kent, Isle of Thanet, Right Hon. J. Lowther, conservative, re-elected, 3,901; H. C. Hart, liberal, 2,855.

Norfolk, Walsham, R. Price, liberal, elected, 4,743; Sir E. Birbeck, conservative, 4,303. This is a gain for the liberals.

Ireland—Carlow, J. Hammond, anti-Parnellite, re-elected, 3,738; McMahon, unionist, 813.

Yorkshire, Howdenshire division, W. H. Wilson Todd, conservative, elected, 3,908; Alderman T. J. Woodhouse, liberal, 3,648.

Yorkshire, Whitby, E. W. Beckett, conservative, re-elected, 4,909; F. Pyman, liberal, 3,826.

IN THE NORTH.

Great Excitement Still Prevailing.

The Militia and United States Troops on the Scene—The Strikers Surrounded.

Boise City, Idaho, July 13.—Everything is in a state of excitement over the reports from the north. Yesterday Company A, Idaho militia, left for the scene. They were met at Nampa by the company from Hailey and a little further on by one from Weiser and Volmer. Gov. Willey received word from Gen. Schofield at Washington, D. C., that the United States troops from Fort Sherman, Idaho, and Fort Missoula, Mont., had been ordered to the scene. They will be under the orders of Gov. Willey and will co-operate with the state militia. The governor says he will mass within twenty hours a regiment of United States troops and 200 militia at the scene of the difficulty. He asked for troops from Fort Spokane and Walla Walla. They will follow those already started for Couer D'Alene.

If the troops enter Coeur D'Alene as by the governor's orders, the strikers will be completely surrounded. It is intended to have the Missoula troops go to Mullam, while those from Sherman, with the militia, will proceed to Wardner. The former will move down the Gulch in which the miners are operating, while reinforcements from Spokane and Walla Walla will aid in completely surrounding, and if possible capture all the strikers.

Word has just been received that Col. Carly left at 4:30 yesterday afternoon with four companies for Wardner.

"Let me see it, dear," cooed Mrs. Reader.

"Oh, it's of no use. If I can't make anything out of it, you don't suppose you can, do you?"

"Perhaps not; but I'd like to see it, all the same."

He handed her the paper; and this is what she read:

"Toilet of fancy foulard. The corsage crossed, and of guipure. Little sultane vest held in by barettes of velvet with bows. High sleeves of foulard, terminated in volants of guipure. Flat skirt, trimmed with a high volant of guipure, surmounted with bows of velvet."—Puck.

TOO SMALL TO WALK.

A youngster applied for a position as messenger at one of the telegraph offices the other day, and was put to work, says the New York Advertiser. The first few days he did exceedingly well, and the delivery clerk began to think that the newcomer would soon be one of his best boys. A few days ago the boy was sent with a "rush" message to a firm whose office was on the fifth floor of a large building on Broad street. The little fellow returned even sooner than was expected, and the clerk complimented him on his speedy delivery of the message.

"But," said the boy, "I did not deliver the message."

"What!" said the clerk: "why not?"

"The elevator is broke and won't be fixed before noon, and I did not want to wait, for I thought you would rather have me here where I can be of some use."

The boy is now looking for another position, much to his own surprise.

ADAM NEVER WAS A BOY.

Of all the men the world has seen
Since Time his rounds began
There's one I pity every day—
Earth's first and foremost man;
And then I think what fun he missed
By failing to enjoy
The wild delights of youth-time, for
He never was a boy.

He never stabbed his naked toe
Against a root or stone;
He never with a pin-hook fished
Along the brook alone;
He never sought the bumblebee
Among the daisies coy,
Nor felt its business end, because
He never was a boy.

He never hookey played, nor tied
The ever-ready pail,
Down in the alley all alone,
To trusting Fido's tail;
And when he home from swimming came,
His happiness to cloy,
No slipper interfered, because
He never was a boy.

He might refer to splendid times
'Mong Eden's bowers, yet
He never acted Romeo
To a six-year Juliet;
He never sent a valentine
Intended to annoy
A good but maiden aunt, because
He never was a boy.

He never cut a kite string, no!
Nor hid an Easter egg;
He never ruined his pantaloons
A-playing mumblety-peg;
He never from the attic stole
A coon hunt to enjoy,
To find "the old man" watching, for
He never was a boy.

I pity him. Why should I not?
I even drop a tear;
He did not know how much he missed,
He never will, I fear;
And when the scenes of "other days"
My growing mind employ
I think of him, earth's only man
Who never was a boy.

There were on British pastures last year nearly 29,000,000 sheep and lambs, showing an advance of nearly a million and a half over the number in 1880. Our total sheep stock last year, moreover, exceeded by 3,000,000 head the flocks of two years ago, and by more than 4,000,000 the flocks of 1891.

The chances are that the man who wrote an immortal book may have something worthy to say even in a posthumous book. Henry de Rothschild has secured a newly discovered manuscript from the pen of Le Sage, author of "Gil Blas." It is an opera-comique, entitled "Arlequin Colonel," and is written with remarkable elegance and wit.

Prof. Skeat, who maintains the orthodox belief that the study of Latin and Greek is serviceable for improving a student's style in English composition, thinks also there is something to be said on the other side. Whatever the study of Latin and Greek might do toward improving the student's style, the study of languages and English literature would do more.

A patent has recently been issued for a new style of shoe. The foot and rear portions of the shoe are connected by hinge plates, an insole attached to the front piece curving over the joint. The inventor claims that the combination secures greater comfort than with the ordinary form of shoe.

Maurel has published a book on singing, which he says is passing through a crisis, due to the changed condition of modern life. In old days the profession of a singer offered few attractions comparatively, and those went into it only who felt a real vocation for it, and they prepared themselves by a long and rigorous course of study. Nowadays business is the leading motive. Singing is looked on as less an art than as a way to make money, and people push into the profession in every state of crde preparation.

Kentucky will make at the world's fair an exhibit of tobacco in all its forms from the seed up to the matured and manufactured leaf. There will be exhibits of different varieties of plants in various stages of growth, and illustrations of the manner of shipping and handling the weed from the time the seed is put into the ground until the product goes into the chewer's or smoker's mouth. The people may be assured that it will be the greatest exhibition ever given of tobacco in the world. The various ways in which tobacco is used in manufacture will also be a feature of the dispuay.

The Austrian state railroads introduced their low zone tariff in June, 1890, and a greatly reduced freight tariff last year. The report of 1891 shows a gain of 1 1-8 per cent. in gross earnings over those of 1890, but a decrease of 13 1-3 per cent. in net earnings. The larger part of the increase in gross earnings was from passenger traffic, and the increase in freight earnings was trifling; but a decrease of $1,600,000 had been estimated as the result of the decrease of freight rates in this, the first year of their working. The net earnings were equal to 2.39 per cent. on the cost of the state railroads.

TRICKING THE SHADOW.

I was once watching a London stock broker who was suspected of embezzlement, said an English detective to a writer for the New York Dispatch. It was feared that he would bolt to sunny Spain, and I held a warrant for his arrest, which was only to be executed if he were on the point of leaving the country, as the evidence of his malpractice was far from complete. In some mysterious fashion he became aware of the fact that I was on his track, and for 24 hours tried many of the old dodges to get rid of me. He would go into a corner public house when it was crowded and leave it immediately by the opposite entrance. He would enter a cab on the rank at dusk by one door, giving the cabman a direction by which to drive, and quit it by the other door before the horses started. But I was up to all these and similar moves, and never lost sight of my man.

But he "did" me at last. He entered Moorgate Street station, spoke to the collector at the entrance to the middle platform, mentioned that he was not going by train, but wanted to meet a "crippled" sister who was to come in by the next train from Clapham, tipped the man and was allowed to pass on to the platform. A Clapham train came in, and he peered into every carriage with a look of expectation. At the same time another train going in the opposite direction was leaving the platform, and my man suddenly turned round with a half crown held up in his fingers, grasped the handle of the guard's compartment—the last of the train—leaped lightly on to the footboard and was pulled into the carriage by the complacent and half-crown-expecting guard. I ran after the train, but it was no good. I followed by the next train, but lost all clew of him. I caught the guard some time afterward, and learned that the "gent" had got out at Wandsworth road, but I never got on his scent again. He sailed—as I afterward learned—from Liverpool next day, reached Bilbao in a cargo steamer and was declared a defaulter on 'change two days after I lost him at Moorgate street.

Here is another instance: I was employed by a jealous wife to watch the movements of her husband, a retired butterman of the Perkin Middleviok type, whom she (rightly or wrongly) suspected of a flirtation with a "chorister" at one of the West End theaters. I deemed the job an easy one, and "shadowed" my man without much difficulty for several days. How he guessed that I was doing so I cannot say, but he "tumbled" to the fact and shook me off in a manner which was as comic as it was vexatious. He left his home in the Brixton road one morning and took his place on the box seat of a Streatham omnibus, on the knife board of which I was soon seated. Descending at the White Lion, he walked leisurely out in the country till I began to fancy I was on the point of discovery and expected to see him call at one of the isolated villas to be found in that district. But no; he stuck to the main road, went on for a couple of miles at a leisurely pace, while I congratulated myself that he never looked round, or he must have noticed that I was following him. Presently I saw a gig, with a capital mare in the shafts, drawn up at the side of the road a little way ahead. The driver was reading a paper, and I was never more astonished in my life than I was when I saw my "butterman" mount quickly into the trap, and, turning round, wave his hand to me in ironical adieu, while the mare set off at the rate of 12 miles an hour. He had evidently planned the whole thing and arranged for the gig to be there at a certain time. Pursuit was hopeless, and I returned to town to report my failure and to be terribly chaffed by my brother officers.

In order to keep the "suspect" in ignorance of the fact that he is "shadowed" the costume of the "shadower" must be so regulated that he can follow his man anywhere without exciting suspicion. So the "shadow" gets himself up as a smart shopman, hangs about till Jones leaves his shop, and then follows him. Jones probably makes straight for his lodgings, and the "shadow" chooses a spot where he can keep watch on the door, having first assured himself that there is no other exit from the premises. Now he must wait—waiting is the worst part of a "shadower's" duties—in such way as not to attract attention.

For the first hour or so he can look as if he had an "appointment," frequently referring to his watch, glancing up and down the road with an air of expectancy, and exhibiting, first, signs of impatience, and then those of dogged perseverance. If there is a pastry cook's house or public house, the window of which commands a view of Jones' door, the "shadow" will install himself there with a newspaper, over the edge of which he "keeps his eye open." Ultimately Jones comes out, and once more the "shadow" takes up the trail. The chase may lead to the billiard-room, to the music hall or to any one of the numerous haunts in which young men pass their evenings, but the shadow must follow everywhere and yet never obtrude his presence. He must be a man of infinite resources, up to every move on the board, ready to "cab it" when Jones jumps into a hansom or to travel in the same train which carries Jones to the suburbs—possibly to meet his confederates. He must jot down little incidents—apparently unimportant—insignificant links which may complete the convicting chain of evidence.

A telegram sent from a certain postoffice at a certain hour, a letter handed to a subsequently identified messenger at a certain spot; a whispered conversation in a concert room with a man who may be later on hanged as an accomplice; frequent visits at an address where a "receiver" may be residing; even the presents which Jones makes to the barmaid of his choice at his ordinary house of call—each and all may be important evidence, and must be included in the "shadow's" report, on the strength of which a prosecution is frequently decided on.

Considering that the "shadow" is often on duty night and day, getting a few hours' sleep at odd times; that his work is fatiguing, not only to the body but to the brain and that he requires long practice ere his natural astuteness can be turned to account, no one can grumble at the high rate which his services command. "A guinea a day and expenses" is the average rate charged by a private inquiry office for a "shadow," of which the "shadow" gets from half a guinea to 15 shillings; his account of expenses being, commonly enough, a much more modest affair than that which is rendered by the proprietor of the office to the client who has applied for a "shadow."

GLORIOUS CAMPING DAYS.

What Splendid Sport Can Be Had in a Short Outing.

"And now begins the glorious camping days of sultry suns and long, restful loafs for those blessed with a little respite from the city's strife. This is no month for sport of any kind save with tackle, and even the fishing is not what it was two weeks ago. July (save upon northern waters) and yellow August are not prolific of the best fly-fishing as a rule, but trolls and baits yield fair returns upon the larger waters, and there is fun to be enjoyed. He is happiest who depends rather upon the restful change of camp-life under the whispering pines for his reward than upon the number of fish he may kill. He should be up and doing at gray dawn, and have his boat or canoe at the best point he knows of on the lake before the first sun-ray over the eastern hills slants across the water.

"If the lake be but a boss water, with a few 'lunge' as possibilities, well and good, but if one or more trout-streams flow into it, so much the better. On every feeder of lakes of any size are places where springs join the main water—perhaps flowing in from either side, or possibly bubbling up from the bottom. Where these springs' colder waters mingle with the sun-warmed current of the stream are the places to find the largest trout. The fish detest warm water and too much sunshine, and during July and August they congregate about the places where the cold springs flow, or where the pools are deepest and coolest and the shadows darkest. At such points capital sport may often be enjoyed and heavy fish killed, when only a few mere fingerlings can be taken from sun-kissed reaches. Early morning and late evening are the surest times, for the fish, especially the larger ones, are then sure to be 'on the feed,' and they may be seen rising merrily in pools that have not been broken by a single ripple all day long while the sun was strong."—Ed. W. Sandys, in Outing for July.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

Senator Hoar has recently been the guest of Lord Chief Justice Coleridge of England.

Hiram Lukens has been setting type in the office of the Doylestown (Pa.) Intelligencer ever since June 21, 1832.

Chief Justice Fuller of the United States supreme court has taken a cottage for the summer at Camden, Me.

Marshall Field paid $200,000 for 800 square feet of Chicago land recently—the largest price ever paid in that city.

The marquis de Mores, who killed his man in the latest duel in France, has been shot at eighteen times without having been hit.

The London Times says that Lord Tennyson has written the following to a correspondent under date of June 28: "Sir—I love Gladstone, but hate his Irish policy."

The vicar of Barking, England, has invited his parishioners to Sunday afternoon concerts in his garden. He has engaged a military band, and they will discourse sacred music, while his parishioners will sit around, smoke, and chat.

The French papers say that the rapid increase in the little family of the German emperor has compelled him to economize, and he has notified the municipalities of Wiesbaden, Cassel, and Hanover, that he is obliged to stop his usual subsidies to the theaters of those cities.

The Rothschilds have a pretty way of providing a birthday present for all the girls of the family when they come of age. At the birth of each little girl six pearls, valued at $2,500 are put aside. Six more are added at every birthday, and when the young lady reaches the age of 21 she is presented with the valuable necklace.

Aurelien Scholl, in a recent tribute to Ernest Guiraud, the French composer, published in one of the Paris papers, declares that the composer succeeded in lengthening his life four years by declining to open letters which he received. Two thousand unopened letters, M. Scholl says, were found among the effects of the musician. Upon the average, he adds, ten minutes would be consumed in reading each letter and at least thirty minutes in answering it. He argues further that the letters would have caused him great care, and that freedom from such burden added several years to his life.

A MISTAKE SOMEWHERE.

"Miss Gracie," he said, with an engaging smile, "did you ever try your hand at one of these progressive conundrums?"

"What is a progressive conundrum, Mr. Spoonamore?" inquired the young lady.

"Haven't you heard of them? Here is one: Why is a ball of yarn like the letter 't'? Because a ball of yarn is circular, a circular is a sheet, a sheet is a flat, a flat is $45 a month, $45 a month is dear, a deer is swift, a swift is a swallow, a swallow is a taste, a taste is an inclination, an inclination is an angle, an angle is a point, a point is an object aimed at, an object aimed at is a target, a target is a mark, a mark is an impression, an impression is a stamp, a stamp is a thing stuck on, a thing stuck on is a young man in love, and a young man in love is like the letter 't' because he stands before 'u,' Miss Gracie."

"I don't think you have the answer quite right," said the young lady. "A ball of yarn is round, a round is a steak, a stake is a wooden thing, a wooden thing is a young man in love, and a young man in love is like the letter 't' because, Mr. Spoonamore"—and she spoke clearly and distinctly—"because he is often crossed."

The young man understood. He took his hat and his progressive conundrums and vanished from Miss Gracie Garlinghouse's alphabet forever—Chicago Tribune.

KANSAN WISDOM.

All men are afraid of a very smart woman.

A happy man is one who doesn't want what he can't have.

Nothing pleases a man so well as to be asked if his oldest daughter isn't his wife.

It is only the men who are related to a woman who tell her a disagreeable truth.

There are times when to tell the truth would be more mischievous than to tell a lie.

Every man's ideal woman is one who would believe he caught whales in the river if he told her so.

Nothing is so fortunately built as a fly. It can stand on one leg and scratch itself anywhere with five legs at once.

No matter how welcome a guest is, the hostess always looks a little dismayed if she brings a trunk instead of a valise.

It is so hard to show your sympathy to a boy in his trouble, but it is easy to cry and say nice things to comfort a girl.—Atchison Globe.

HAS BEEN THERE.

"The tin coffee-pot may have all the ashes of a thousand camp-fires clinging to its smoky sides, the butter may be garnished with myriads of brown pine-needles, the marmalade may be excavated from its primitive wide-mouthed glass bottle by means of a steel knife-blade, the canned beef may be warm and shapeless, the slices of bread ragged and huge, but ah, the deliciousness of it all, out under the giant forest trees, with the wide, blue lake sleeping in the sunset at one's feet, and the shy wild-fowl skirting the marshes on the farther side, and startling the twilight silence with their strange melancholy cries."—E. Pauline Johnson, in Outing for July.

THE LADIES.

The pleasant effect and perfect safety with which ladies may use the California liquid laxative Syrup of Figs, under all conditions, makes it their favorite remedy. To get the true and genuine article, look for the name of the California Fig Syrup Co., printed near the bottom of the package.

THEY WERE AFTER HIM.

Farmer (in fashionable hat store)—Oh, I guess I just want to look 'round a little. What do you tax for a plug hat like that one there?

Hatter—Eight dollars.

Farmer—Hey, diddle, diddle!—What I come in here for really was to throw a bunco steer off my tracks; but I guess I'll take chances with him ruthern'n you. So long!—Smith, Gray & Co.'s Monthly.

At a recent floral festival of the Linnaean society, of Jamaica, Long Island, one table contained seventy-five different varieties of wild plants in flower, which were collected in the immediate vicinity, most of them rooted in pots.

WAKE UP.

If you wake up in the morning with a bitter or bad taste in your mouth, Languor, Dull Headache, Despondency, Constipation, take Simmons Liver Regulator. It corrects the bilious stomach, sweetens the breath and cleanses the furred tongue. Children as well as adults sometimes eat something that does not digest well, producing Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Restlessness, or Sleeplessness—a good dose of Regulator will give relief. So perfectly harmless is this remedy that it can be taken by the youngest infant or the most delicate person without injury, no matter what the condition of the system may be. It can do no harm if it does no good, but its reputation for 40 years proves it never fails in doing good.

SMALL POX.

Many Cases at Victoria, British Columbia

And United States Cities in That Vicinity — Fearful of an Epidemic.

Tacoma, Wash., July 12.—Victoria officials admit that at present there are 47 cases of smallpox in that city, but it is thought that the number of victims is much greater.

All sound ports, including Tacoma, Seattle, Fair Haven and Port Townsend, yesterday established stringent quarantine regulations against Victoria and Vancouver, which latter place is the terminus of the Canadian Pacific.

Last night six cases were reported at Whatcom, on Bellingham Bay, they being the first cases so far announced at a United States port.

Six cases were also reported last night at Seattle, but this is denied by health officers of that city. In addition to ports on the American side cutting off communication with British Columbia ports, travelers by rail are also subject to inspection to prevent British Columbia people crossing the line by rail. Officers are stationed at Blaine between British Columbia and Washington with orders to compel all incomers to prove that they do not hail from Victoria or Vancouver. Health officers at Victoria last night reported five deaths.

VETERANS' RETURN TO WASHINGTON.

The Grand Army encampment at Washington in September will be the occasion of the reunion of thousands of veterans who parted in that city in 1865, after the grand review following the surrender at Appomatox and the capitulation of Richmond. Again, after a lapse of 27 years, thousands of veterans will march down Pennsylvania to be reviewed again by the president of the United States, members of his cabinet, and other distinguished personages. It will be a spectacle seldom equaled in the magnificence of the display and in the number of men participating. Excursion tickets to Washington via the Baltimore & Ohio railroad will be sold by all the roads in the west at exceedingly low rates. The chief delight of the trip to Washington will be the journey via the picturesque Baltimore & Ohio, which crosses the Allegheny mountains and for 250 miles traverses territory fraught with the most thrilling incidents of the war. For more detailed information as to time of trains, rates, and sleeping car accommodations apply to L. S. Allen, Asst. Gen. Passenger Agent, The Rookery, Chicago. Upon application, Chas. O. Scull, Gen. Passenger Agent, Baltimore, Md., will send free of charge a handsomely illustrated Guide to Washington.

PIQUA GAS.

Citizens Excited Over An Alleged Attempt to Beat Them.

St. Marys, O., July 13.—(Special.)—There is intense excitement at Piqua over the natural gas question. At a meeting held there by the council Monday evening, the gas company made an attempt to clandestinely pass an ordinance which, in effect, would allow the company to fix its own price for gas for the next five years, instead of the council.

The scheme failed, however, and then an attempt was made to keep the matter quiet, but it finally leaked out, and now the greatest indignation exists.

A citizens' meeting was held last night and a committee appointed to take proper measures to have the people informed of the exact nature of the whole matter, and the propriety of holding a public meeting is being discussed.

The same company attempted the passage of a similar ordinance five years ago, but failed, and the secret manner pursued this time has aroused the suspicion of the entire people.

HALF RATES TO WASHINGTON VIA B. & O. R. R.

For the national meet of the League of American Wheelmen at Washington, July 18 to 20, the Baltimore & Ohio railroad will sell excursion tickets at rate of one fare for the round trip. Tickets will be sold at offices of the company and offices of the principal roads of the west July 16 and 17, and will be valid for return journey until July 24. Bicycles of passengers will be carried free of charge. The Baltimore & Ohio has been designated as the official route to the meet by the officials of League of American Wheelmen.

For full information as to time of trains and rates of fare apply to L. S. Allen, Asst. Gen'l Pass. Agent, The Rookery, Chicago. Upon application, Chas. Scull, Gen. Pass. Agent, Baltimore, Md., will send free of charge a handsomely illustrated Guide to Washington.

NORWALK ITEMS.

Norwalk, July 13.—(Special.)—Mrs. Ruhama Alling, wife of Dr. C. P. Alling, of Bradford, Pa., died Saturday and her remains will be brought to Norwalk today. She was a daughter of the late Wm. H. Wakeman, of North Fairfield, and a cousin of Mrs. Dr. Keith. Dr. Alling was a former resident of Norwalk. Mrs. Alling was the mother of Mrs. Fengar, wife of Capt. A. A. Fengar, of the revenue cutter Perry.

Mrs. Jamison, wife of Rev. H. C. Jamison, of Fostoria, is in the city the guest of Dr. S. P. Hildreth and his sister, Mrs. Harriet Roe.

Emory Sheldon, of Fitchville, was sentenced by Judge Thomas yesterday to 20 days in Cleveland workhouse and to pay a fine of $10 and costs.

RUN DOWN BY AN EXPRESS.

New York, July 13.—While Mrs. Carr, aged 30, and her two little girls, aged respectively 6 and 4 years, were walking on the tracks of the West Shore railroad near the West Haverstraw station yesterday, they were struck by an express train which instantly killed the woman and one of the children and fatally injured the other. The tragedy was witnessed by many horrified people.

WISCONSIN REPUBLICANS

Worried Over the New Apportionment of the State.

Madison, Wis., July 13.—Ex-Senator Spooner, ex-Attorney-General Estabrook, H. W. Chynowith and Col. Geo. W. Bird, of this city; A. J. Turner, of Portage; George Green, of Green Bay, and others held a secret consultation all yesterday afternoon and late last night for the purpose of determining what procedure shall be adopted to bring the last democratic apportionment into court for the purpose of having it declared unconstitutional.

It is said the attempt on the part of the republicans to oust the right of the hold-over senators to their seats has been abandoned and that the apportionment as made at the special session will be assailed.

The reasons given for the alleged abandonment of the scheme is the claim that the new apportionment act is unconstitutional, and in order to contest the seats of the hold-over senators it is necessary to have a legal apportionment. The supreme court meets August 3. Leave will then probably be asked to bring the action. The court will not hear arguments until August 30, and if the republicans succeed the case will be given a hearing at that time.

THEY WANT DONNELLY.

Opening of Minnesota People's Party Convention.

They Do Not Think Much of the Farmers' Alliance Convention of Last Week.

St. Paul, Minn., July 13.—The state convention of the people's party assembled here this afternoon, and delegates from every county were on the ground this morning. Last week the Minnesota Farmers' alliance in state convention nominated ex-Secretary of State James H. Baker for governor, and appointed a committee to wait upon to-day's convention concerning the make-up of the balance of the ticket.

Many of the delegates elected to the present gathering, however, characterized last week's convention as a snap affair, and mainly intended to forestall the nomination of Ignatius Donnelly for governor by to-day's convention.

The feeling among these delegates is in favor of paying no attention to the alliance, but of nominating a complete ticket.

LINCOLN'S MOTHER

Remained the Guiding Angel During the Life of the Martyr President.

"All I am I owe to my mother."

So said the most typical American of Americans, Abraham Lincoln.

Only recently has Mr. Lincoln's genealogy been definitely ascertained, says a writer in the New York Ledger. On his father's side he came from the Puritan stock. His mother belonged to a family of Quakers. From Uriah Hanks was descended Nancy, the mother of the illustrious, God-given martyr president.

She was a winsome Virginian maiden, tall, dark, dignified, with few equals in her day for grace of manner and intellectual attainments. Her reverent, devout nature was given her by generations of pious ancestors, men who believed in God, feared Him and nobody else.

She went with her brave husband out on the frontiers of western life, leaving behind the sunny south. Few books were to be had, except her constant volume, the Bible, and her noble conduct accords with its precepts. She longed for a larger life, but patiently endured her lot. Yet do not wonder that the almond-shaped eyes looked sadly into the past, and a shadow often threw itself across her benign face as she reflected upon a cheerless present and a dismal future.

Her home was a log cabin of one room only. No door had been hung. The skin of a deer stretched across the opening—a poor protection for the winter's blast. The stars could be seen as she lay on her rude bed of straw. In this shelter Abraham Lincoln was born February 12, 1809, and when he was 10 years old he was left motherless.

In after years he speaks of her, this great woman, so brief a space given to him, and given amid such fearful odds, such poverty, such hardship. The verdict he gave is: "All I am I owe to my mother."

Oh, men of America, what a testimony from our greatest modern American! Aye, the greatest of all our heroes! And how many more could re-echo his words, if called upon for testimony! And you, the mothers of our great ones and of all the "leal"-hearted and brave, such a message as this to you is a thrill of joy.

She it was who, in 10 short years of his infant life, so moulded his character, purified his ambition, made his aims and him all he was to us and the race, that, in his after days, amid all his checkered life, she still remained his guiding angel, the star of his proud, glorious destiny, until the assassin's bullet set him free to rejoin the mother to whom he owed so much.

SOME ODDITIES OF FISH.

Differences Between Those That Swim Near Shore or in Deep Sea.

Though no sharp line of separation can be drawn, marine fish are roughly divided, says the St. Louis Republic, for convenience into three categories. Shore fish, those which habitually frequent coast lines, and rarely, if ever, descend to a greater depth than 300 fathoms; pelagic fishes, those which inhabit the open sea; and the curious deep-sea forms, which live at an enormous depth and sport around where the influence of light and surface temperature are never felt.

Heilprin tells us that the first-class, the shore fishes, is composed of about 3,500 species. Their northern range extends to or even beyond the 83d parallel of latitude. Even this is a strange and unaccountable freak in the finny denizens of the deep, for in the southern hemisphere they are not known to go beyond the 60th parallel. In the different zones these fishes are largely identical in both the Atlantic and the Pacific basins, as well as on the opposite sides of these great "ocean sinks."

Tropical waters, as one would naturally suppose, produce a greater abundance and wider range of forms than those of temperate regions. The same may also be said of the reefs in the Indian ocean, in the near vicinity of which may be found a greater number of species and a wider diversity in form than in the whole of the Atlantic basin.

THE BEST IN THE WORLD.

Senator Henry C. Nelson, of New York, writes:

"On the 27th of February, 1883, I was taken with a violent pain in the region of the kidneys. I suffered such agony that I could hardly stand up. As soon as possible I applied two Allcock's Porous Plasters, one over each kidney, and laid down. In an hour, to my surprise and delight, the pain had vanished, and I was well. I wore the plasters for a day or two as a precaution, and then removed them. I have been using Allcock's Porous Plasters in my family for the last ten years, and have always found them the quickest and best remedy for colds, strains and rheumatic affections. From my experience I believe they are the best plasters in the world."

WORLD'S FAIR COMMISSIONERS.

Washington, July 13.—The board of control of the world's Columbian exposition at a special meeting to-day selected Judge St. Clair, of Virginia, and Hon. W. E. Massey, of Delaware, as members of the new administrative board brought into existence by the world's fair bill.

These gentlemen will hereafter represent the national commission with autocratic powers.

MILWAUKEE CATHOLIC SYNOD.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 13.—The sessions of the Catholic synod of the arch diocese of Milwaukee were continued to-day.

Consideration of the question of discipline is still the pending order. In the course of the proceedings yesterday the interesting fact was brought out that it is nearly 35 years since the last synod of this kind was held in the Badger state.

"Be sure you get Ayer's" is an important caution to all in search of a thoroughly reliable blood-purifier. Ayer's Sarsaparilla being the one on which there can be no manner of doubt. It has stood the test of nearly half a century, and has long been considered the standard.

COMPANY MANNERS.

Politeness Not Always Indicative of One's True Nature.

We are all familiar with Mr. du Maurier's Duchess, who has either "company manners," or no manners at all, and we are fain to confess that the dear lady is not altogether a libellous caricature of certain members of her class, says the Saturday Review. It does not follow that either the duchess in question or the butler or any one whose manners are bad by nature, and indifferently good by art, is also by nature bad hearted and insincere. Some of the best and most well meaning people in the world have the worst manners, and wear their artificial manners with the worst grace. They are conscious that their manners are not natural to them, and their own honesty makes their assumption of that outward politeness of demeanor the more awkward and constrained.

The really well mannered man is the man to whom bad manners are a natural impossibility; to whom it is as difficult to be rude or brusque, as it is to another, and perhaps better natured man, to be courteous and polite. "A man may smile and smile, and be a villain"—in Denmark, at least, it was the case—and so it is quite possible for a man to have perfect manners by nature, and yet be as finished a scoundrel as he is outwardly a finished gentleman. Manners are by no means an infallible index of the real state of the man whom they adorn.

And yet they certainly do make the man as far as his commerce with other men is concerned, and are of greater value to him in his relation with the outside world than many other more sterling qualities. Politeness and courtesy, such as is universal in every class and degree of life in Japan, do much to smooth the way of life, both for ourselves and others. English people, as a rule, even of the better and most educated classes, do not achieve politeness; the utmost that they can attain to is a rather rough civility.

KENTUCKY LYNCHING.

Franklin, Ky., July 13.—John Redfern, the white man who shot and killed Mr. P. B. Dunn and dangerously injured John Hobdy, a negro, yesterday, was taken from jail by a mob at midnight last night and hanged.

Baby

Your Baby: sick all last night—cross this morning; colic hurts; little hands clutch the air; the wee body twists, the tender stomach is big with flatulence.

Helpless! Hours before the doctor can come; what is to be done?

DR. HAND has the remedy for Baby. He had it 25 years ago, but it wasn't so well known then.

It stops colic short metre, gives the little one rest—gives the family a rest.

A little Book, illustrated, full of sense and suggestion, will be sent to any one in the land FREE. It tells you how to do your part in caring for Baby. DR. HAND'S COLIC CURE is 25 cents a bottle—it's worth $25 in an emergency. 25 cents in stamps gets it. If you want a trial bottle, or a free book, address

A 25 cent Package makes five gallons.

Strictly Pure White Lead is the Best Paint.

Care is necessary though, to obtain strictly pure, as the market is flooded with so-called Pure White Leads that in reality contain but very little white lead.

The following analyses of two of these misleading brands show the exact proportion of genuine white lead they contain. The analyses describe the labels and brands on the packages and give the contents as follows:

"Lion Brand White Lead. The side label reads as follows: "$100 in Gold. One hundred dollars in gold will be paid if the contents of this package is not pure. For whiteness, fineness, and covering properties it is unsurpassed by any other lead in the market. "Lion White Lead Works, Toledo, Ohio."

Materials	Proportions	Analyzed by
White Lead	12.78 per cent.	Manns & Tatarian, Chicago.
Sulphate of Lead	3.35 per cent.
Oxide of Zinc	25.50 per cent.
Barytes	58.30 per cent.

"Masury's Railroad White Lead." White label, marked "Railroad White Lead, 25; pure; John W. Masury & Son, New York and Chicago, warranted superior."

Materials	Proportions	Analyzed by
Oxide of Zinc	55.70 per cent.	Ledoux & Co., New York.
Barytes	44.30 per cent.

We have a book which gives the analyses of eighty different misleading brands. If you are going to paint it will pay you to send for it.

It will only cost a postal card to get it, it may save you many a dollar.

DO YOU WANT GOLD?

Cripple Creek is not a health resort. It is a wealth resort. Quite a difference! Location, near Pike's Peak, in Colorado. Gold—bright, yellow gold, is found at grass roots and in the rock formation.

Reliable experts claim this is to-day the richest camp in Colorado. Assays average $100 per ton, and have run as high as $5,000. One hundred people a day are now rushing to Fremont, chief town of the district.

The chance of a life-time is worth looking after!

You can get there quickly and comfortably by taking Santa Fe Route. Only line with no change of cars from Chicago, Kansas City and other principal cities to Florissant, nearest railroad station, with daily stages, to Fremont.

London wheat market opens easier off coast, for shipment firmly held. Corn quiet. Liverpool wheat and corn quiet.

California Wheat Movement—The receipts at San Francisco in the week ending July 6, equaled 269,100 bu of wheat, and 9,745 bbls of flour.

The stocks of grain in private elevators at Chicago are reported at 718,000 bu wheat, 371,000 bu corn, 718,000 bu oats, 14,500 bu. rye, and 130,000 bu. barley.

Reported that 364,000 bu wheat and 88,000 bu corn were taken at New York and outports yesterday for export.

Wheat harvest in the Miami, Ohio valley is about over. The yield will average 16 bu to the acre.

Comment—You can get bets that the average is not over 14 bu.

The receipts of wheat to-day at Minneapolis and Duluth are 350,658 bushels and at five other western points 300,932 bushels. On the same Wednesday in 1891 the receipts were 517,655 bushels, but only 103,835 bushels of it was northwest wheat.

The export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were 278,247 bushels and flour to an aggregate of 310,000 bushels. Export of corn 21,273 bushels and of oats 22,095 bushels.

English markets as reported were in open dull and with weaker tendency.

News From the Crop.

Central Indiana sends discouraging reports of the yield and quality of the wheat crop. We have seen samples this morning that indicate a grading of No. 4. The weight was 52 pounds.

We have steadily assumed that vicinages of our country would only produce this year limited yields of poor wheat. Some of these 550,000,000 bushel writers on the crop will get awake before long and change their tune. But we must caution shippers that off grades of wheat will be more plentiful than last year and the margins of value increased.

The Inspection of Wheat in Toledo.

The inspection department of this association is organized under state laws, and each inspector is an officer of the state. The system and the men are the best that can be devised, and every man is treated fairly. If a shipment of wheat does not grade No. 2, the owner may know there is a good reason for it.

But the fools are not all dead, and every day a car of wheat is found on the track here with beautiful wheat on top and miserable rejected on the bottom. Such attempts at swindling are never successful, and the owner of the wheat is the loser thereby.

Toledo as a Grain Market.

The charges for elevating grain here are less than at any other grain point, and the other charges are as low. Winter wheat is always in demand in Toledo, and the business is conducted by as fair a class of merchants as can be found in any department of business in this country.

The Markets To-Day.

We have had a fine shower to-day, the first since the 3d inst.

Bradstreets' reports of the visible supply makes wheat east of the Rockies decreased 1,841,000 bu.; corn decreased 775,000 bu.; oats increased 198,000 bu.

Prices of wheat weakened and declined during the first hour of the session, but on reports of yesterday's rains and decreased wheat movements from the interior, as well as of reports of inferior yield and quality in various sections the markets became firmer, and closed above yesterday. The advance was marked in Chicago, rather than in New York.

Corn has been firm. Chicago prices have advanced 3-4@1c, and New York 1-8@1-2c. Oats close higher in Chicago and lower in New York.

Berlin and Paris markets for wheat are reported as closing higher, while Liverpool is reported closing lower.

In New York August and September wheat closed 1-4c higher. August corn 1-8c, and September 1-2c higher. July oats 1-4c lower.

In Chicago August wheat closed 3-4c and September 1-2c higher; August corn 1c, and September 3-4c higher; July oats 3-4c higher.

In Toledo the market for wheat has been more animated and prices have gained a little over the closing of yesterday. Our receipts have decreased again, and rain in Indiana and Illinois have put a stop to threshing. Opening prices were 1-4c lower, but in the last hour the market was firmer and the loss more than recovered. July, August and September futures closed 3-8c gain. On the call July sold at 78 7-8; August at 78; September at 78 5-8. After the call July sold at 78 3-4 and closed at 79 1-2; August sold at 78 to 77 7-8 an dclosed at 78 5-8; September sold at 78 3-4 and closed at 79 1-4.

Cash wheat was in fair request but with less doing than yesterday. No. 2 soft sold at 79 3-4c to 80c, and at close 80 1-4c was bid for old wheat. No. 3 soft at 78c old. July delivery at 74 1-2c. Rejected No. 1 at 70c. No. 2 at 67c. Smutty at 70c. No. 3 red and white at 74 1-2. Corn—No. 3 at 47 1-2c to 47c. No. 4 at 40c. No. 2 yellow at 51c. No. 3 yellow at 48 1-2c. Oats—No. 3 white at 32 1-2c. Rye—No. 2 for August at 63c.

Clover seed—On the call October sold at $5 20, and after the call $5 15.

Senator Washburn on the Hatch Bill.

We presume no one will now dispute the patriotism of Senator Washburn. He stands before the country to-day as the purest and most sinless type of statesman, devoted to the welfare of the struggling farmer, in the advocacy of measures which most seriously confront and imperil his personal interest, or the interest of the great English milling syndicate of Minneapolis, which he represents in the senate of the United States. Washington and Lincoln have been held up as models of pure and patriotic statesmen, but when did either of these gentlemen advocate the passage of the Hatch bill, which is intended to largely advance the price of farmers' wheat, when it was for their interest to buy the wheat of the farmer at a lower price? This example of self-sacrifice and white-souled purity has never been equaled, and will forever brighten the luster of the name of the agent of the English milling syndicate in the senate of the United States.

This agent of the English millers made a speech Monday in support of the Hatch bill. The speech abounds in tropes and figures. For instance, he denounces the merchants on the great exchanges of this country as corresponding in practice and principle to faro bank dealers and thimble-riggers; but bless you, he could not mean all that, for the reason that he patronizes these faro bank hells.

How could so pure a soul descend to traffic with such gamblers! A few years since it is related that Washburn went in unto these parasites upon honesty, expecting to scoop them. Prices went the other way, and the scooper was scooped of a million, and had to unload his mills onto the English. Ever since he attempted that little game he has been howling against future trading.

"No thief e'er felt the halter draw
With good opinion of the law."

If we lift the thin veil that obscures Washburn we shall see a man who meanly traduces a class of men in all respects superior to himself, before a tribunal where there can be no response. We shall also see a man who has deceived the farmers' representatives, and advocates a bill designed to advance prices of wheat when his interest is in lower prices and knows that will be the effect of the bill.

Mr. Washburn occupies a high position in the government, and as a senator is entitled to great respect; but when he uses that position to assault, and attempt to blacken the character of the merchants of this country, he invites, and will receive the contempt of all fair-minded Americans who love fair play.

If the senate follows Mr. Washburn and passes the Hatch bill, there is not a member who will not regret his vote for it.

CORONERS INQUEST

On Those Killed at the Battle of the Monongahela.

Pittsburg, July 13.—The coroner commenced the inquest last evening on the eight men who were killed in the riot at Homestead.

The names of the deceased were as follows:

James W. Kline, detective of Chicago, died at Homeopathic hospital, aged 47.

James Morris, aged 28, died at Carnegie steel works yard.

Henry Streagle, aged 19.

James Sotak, aged 34, killed in yards.

Thomas Weldon, aged 30 years, mill worker.

Peter Tanis, mill worker, aged 25 years.

Silas Wain, mill worker, aged 25, shot by cannon from Pittsburg side of river.

T. J. Connors, aged 30 years, Pinkerton, was identified by C. W. Bendell.

Captain Wm. B. Rodgers, of the Little Bill steamboat, was the first witness called. He testified that he was employed to transport for Mr. H. C. Frick, Pinkerton detectives to protect and guard the works of the Carnegie company at Homestead. He detailed the trip up the river and the battle that followed. The witness said the crowd on the shore opened fire first.

Captain Wishart, the pilot and Engineers Evans and Martin, corroborated Captain Rodgers.

Joseph G. Hoffman, a Pinkerton detective of Chicago, was the last witness called. He related, as did the previous witnesses, the trip to Homestead. Capt. Hines, he said had charge of the men. As the barges approached the works the witness saw large numbers of people gathered along the river banks, and many of whom were women.

As the barges got nearer to the place of the intended landings the barges were fired upon. Captain Hines and seven men attempted to put out the gang plank on the shore above the bridge, but were unable to do so on account of the shower of stones and actions of the strikers. After a short time an effort was again made and resulted in the placing of the gang plank. As the men were starting down the plank, the strikers fired and the witness fell, having been shot through the right leg above the knee. He said that the detectives were given to understand that their duty was to guard the company's property and that they were instructed not to fire unless in self-defense.

The affidavit of John F. McCurry, who is at Allegheny General hospital, was read to the jury and the inquest was continued until July 26, at 2 o'clock p. m.

MUCH CAROUSING

By Soldiers Out of Camp and the Strikers.

Homestead, Pa., July 13.—Passes were issued yesterday to the militiamen with very little discretion as to numbers and within yesterday to the militiamen with very little discretion as to numbers and within an hour of their arrival at the camping ground the streets of Homestead were filled with a dusty, tired lot of soldiers. They mingled with the locked-out Carnegie mill men and drowned all differences in beer at the many saloons which were wide open.

When it is remembered that 4,000 steel workers alone are idle and that workmen who sympathize with them have been pouring into town for 48 hours and that over 1,000 militiamen were permitted to mingle with these men in the streets and saloons of the town, some idea of the condition of affairs may be obtained. There were 200 special policemen on duty, but they made no attempt to clear sidewalks or maintain order so long as no actual disturbance occurred. Numbers of militiamen were under the influence of liquor by noon and some of the strikers kept them company.

For some reason John McLuckie, the burgess of the borough, turned his authority over to Assistant Burgess Byrne. The latter did his best to preserve order, shortly after noon he went to the brewery up on the Hill back of Homestead and finding about 500 soldiers there in various stages of intoxication, he ordered the place closed.

The militiamen became quite boisterous and rows with strikers were narrowly averted. One man in the uniform of the state, after drinking, freely expressed himself in uncomplimentary terms in regard to the strikers. Two men made a break for him, but a number of militiamen closed in around him and made a hurried return to camp.

FEDERATION OF LABOR

CITY NEWS.

A number of council committees meet to-morrow evening at the chamber.

An addition is being made to the superintendent's residence at Riverside park.

Christian Endeavor delegates are dropping in from their visits succeeding the convention.

Street cars were all completely filled last night with the people who were out on the river excursions.

Much satisfaction is expressed in marine circles over the signing of the river and harbor bill by President Harrison.

Zoe Hatter, of Napoleon, died at the insane asylum yesterday. The remains were taken to that place for interment.

Another good-sized delegation of Toledo attorneys went to Put-in-Bay this morning to attend the State Bar association meeting.

A crowd from the primary and preparatory departments of St. John's M. E. Sunday school picnicked at Metropolitan park to-day.

There does not seem to be much attention paid to the gates at the Wabash crossing. This morning engines were passing back and forth without disturbing either the flagman or the gate keeper.

Coroner Beckwith has decided that Daniel Santsch, killed on the Michigan Central July 4, came to his death in an accidental manner. The coroner complains of the carelessness of the conductor on the switch engine and operator at teh station.

Phil McCarthy, American District watchman, saved H. Stettiner & Co. from heavy loss by fire last night, by the timely discovery of a blaze. The department promptly responded, and the fire was soon extinguished, with little damage.

The Toledo Union Temperance association, representing all the churches and temperance and moral reform societies of the city, holds its first quarterly meeting at 7:30 this evening, in the Davis Business college on Summit street opposite Orange. Important business will come up, and a full attendance is expected.

The effort is being revived for a new voting precinct in the Ninth ward. There is considerable complaint as to the distance to be covered to reach the present polling booths, and one at or near the corner of Hurt avenue and South streets is requested. The plan fell through last year on account of the trouble it would cause in registration, but as there must be general registering in the fall this feature will be obviated.

ON THE VERGE OF DEATH.

A Chicago Three-Year-Old Snatched from a Fourth Story Window Sill.

For nearly ten minutes on Friday afternoon a wee bit of a child arrested traffic on Clark street and blanched many a face with horror. A crowd numbering thousands appeared to be paralyzed for the moment.

High above their heads on a narrow cornice that runs around the fourth floor of the county building stood a 3-year-old boy. The breeze that came up from the lake tossed his yellow curls about his laughing face as he playfully swung his arms about and looked at the ever increasing mass of people that watched him from below. His little dress was wafted about by the wind, while the spectators expected every minute to see the daring explorer pitch headlong from the dizzy perch.

No one dared to cry out for fear of frightening the child, who calmly looked about, up and down the street, leaned over to get a better view of the sidewalk, and gazed at the towering Ashland block on the opposite corner.

Below was a scene of intense excitement. A hackman rushed to his hack and snatched a heavy blanket from the seat. Several men grasped the edges and stood close up to the building directly below where the child was standing. Officer Frank C. Snyder, of the Central station, stood on the corner in front of the Sherman house. A small boy ran up and called his attention to the child, and he made a wild rush for the elevator of the county building. Officer Timmons also witnessed the scene at the same time. About a score of men had now recovered their senses, and through every entrance of the building they raced for the elevators. Officer Timmons made a mistake, and was carried up to the top floor. Officer Snyder, however, made a better calculation. Running down the hall and into Judge Adams' court room he saw the innocent cause of all the commotion out on the ledge in front of the open window.

The court room was deserted and the child was alone.

"Da, da, da," he was saying softly to himself, utterly oblivious of the presence of the officer. Cold drops of perspiration stood on the officer's forehead as he softly tiptoed towards the child, for he realized that his sudden appearance before the startled child meant its instant death. Still the child prattled away, giving itself up to the enjoyment of the novel position.

The officer reached out to grasp its dress, when a wild, hysterical shriek came from the hall behind him. The child turned and began to totter, and a horrified cry arose from the street. Officer Snyder's hand shot out and he held the boy in his arms.

Only for a moment, however, for a woman, in whose face there was not a bit of color, snatched the child from the officer's arms, and then dropped limp and fainting to the floor. The big-eyed boy looked about him curiously, while the room began to fill up with people. The mother of the child, for so she proved, clung tenaciously to him. When she became calmer she said she had been in the probate court room, and her boy was playing and romping in the hall. She had not been aware that he was elsewhere until she heard the people rushing down the hall.

He had pushed open the door of the vacant room and climbed up on a chair to the open window. The officer chided the woman for her carelessness, but she was so happy at the escape of her boy that she paid little attention to his words, but showered passionate kisses on her child's face. She was a comely looking and youthful German and spoke English with difficulty. She would not give her name and soon after left, clasping the child gtihtly to her breast.

A sigh of relief went up from the crowd, which had blocked the sidewalks and extended across the street, when the child was taken inside. It necessitated the stoppage of vehicles and street cars, for in the suspense of the awful sight not a spectator moved, while a wonderous silence was caused by the unwonted spectacle. The passengers on the cable trains craned their necks out of the car to get a sight of the child and many women turned away with frightened faces, as if to avoid witnessing the anticipated fall.

When all was over it took a long time to restore order on the blocked streets, and the occupants of stores and offices about the corner of Clark and Randolph streets are still talking of the incident.—Chicago News-Herald.

WHAT HE WAS THINKING.

"All things considered," remarked the parishioner, "I rather prefer the short sermon."

"And mine are always long," observed his pastor.

"That's what I was thinking," said the parishioner in a far-away tone.—New York News.

NOW SHE WILL SHOP INDUSTRIOUSLY.

Cumso—You look sad. Have you heard bad news?

Fangle—Yes.

"What was it? Did your tailor tell you he wouldn't trust you any longer?"

"No; that wasn't it. My wife came in and told me that the manager of the largest dry goods store in town said my credit was good for anything in the store."—New York News.
